Foreign Aid Is Now Nearer To Showdown

Third Presidential Veto Overridden In Four Days Relaxes Curbs On Railroad Rates - - New Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—The multi-billion dollar foreign aid program headed for a final showdown today.

A Senate-House conference committee was called to decide how much the United States will spend to help 16 European nations, Japan, China and Korea on the road to recovery.

A lively verbal fight appeared to break out between the conferees emerge with the finished bill—a compromise between the sharply conflicting

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

If you love a quiet spot and ideal surroundings for a picnic dinner or supper, I know of no other place within easy reach of Fayette County, which can beat the picnic grounds at Fort Hill State Park, located just off Route 41, some 33 miles south of Washington C. H.

And if you wish to ramble along shady paths in the cool woodlands, there are miles of such paths at your disposal, and these are lined with beautiful and unusual plants, as well as rugged scenery.

My friend Harvey Cutright, custodian of Fort Hill and some of the other state parks in southern Ohio, keeps the grounds in tip-top condition, with freshly painted picnic tables in abundance scattered in the wooded area about the parking lot, and numerous barbecue pits or furnaces, with plenty of fuel to cook a meal or furnish hot coffee.

At the present time the road leading westward from Route 41, somewhat over a mile in length, is in bad condition, but may be negotiated without danger if one drives slowly over the rough spots.

You can't miss it if you want to enjoy a picnic and will go to Fort Hill to do so.

An echo of that little yarn about Lou A. Green and "Battle Ax" tobacco signs, carried in this column Monday, comes from Jess Blackmer, veteran druggist. Jess recalls that when Lou was plastering this part of Ohio with "Battle Ax" signs he ran across a man with a wooden leg who was sound asleep on one of the up-town stairways, so Lou, always out for a practical joke, tacked "Battle Ax" sign to the wooden leg.

When the sleeper aroused he was furious, but Lou seems to have soothed him with a plug of "Battle Ax" and the affair was ended.

Prices Increased By General Electric

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—The General Electric Company has ordered price increases ranging from five to 12 per cent for numerous household articles and industrial products.

Charles E. Wilson, company president, said yesterday the price boosts will be effective immediately.

He said the move was made necessary by wage increases, higher freight rates and advanced costs of materials.

The company last week granted an eight per cent pay increase to 125,000 members of the CIO United Electrical Workers employed at GE plants across the country.

The advanced prices will be tagged on a variety of items ranging from refrigerators to small electric motors.

Wilson said, however, that many articles produced by the company are not affected.

Sailors' 'Business' Leads to Deficit

YOKOHAMA, June 17—(AP)—The books won't balance for two American seamen, Clarence N. Hohannan, 23, of Vallejo, Calif., and Robert W. Talburt, 22, of 1340 W. Woodruff St., Toledo Ohio.

A court martial prosecutor charged they obtained 300 cartons of American cigarettes from the crew of a merchant ship, and sold them to a Japanese at $4 per carton, or a total of $1,200.

The court found the seamen guilty today of illegal sale of cigarettes. Its fine: $800 apiece. The two youths are stationed aboard the LST 531 here.

API PLANT HERE IS TO BE SOLD

August Auction Being Planned, Officials Say

Future Is Uncertain For Big Plant - - Three Potential Buyers

The Aeronautical Products, Inc., plant and equipment here, idle for several months, are going to be sold by McQuay, Inc., of Minneapolis, the present owner of the property.

But what the future holds for the former war plant and the city remains highly conjectural.

There has been no indication of what use to which the property may be put. The logical assumption in quarters close to the developments, however, is that a factory of some sort will eventually be in operation there.

Byron Layman, in charge of the company's affairs here, said present tentative plans call for an auction of the equipment Aug. 10, 11 and 12.

The big building with 85,000 square feet of floor space "may be sold at auction" if it is not sold privately before then, he declared.

Layman explained that most of the details for the disposition of the API were being taken care of at the Minneapolis office of McQuay, Inc.

By telephoning from Minneapolis, Philip Morris of the McQuay Co. confirmed what Layman had said regarding the projected sale. Fred Rost, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said he did not go into detail about the plans, but had said that there were "at least three" prospective buyers for the building. They were not named, however.

Plans Come To Light

Plans for the auction of equipment and sale of the building first came to light when a suggestion was made to the Young Business Men's Committee of the Chamber of Commerce by Layman that it take over the food and drink concession during the three-day auction.

The YBM officers and a committee discussed the concession proposal at a luncheon meeting Wednesday. Indications afterward were that it would be accepted.

Plans for disposing of the API came as somewhat of a surprise, Chamber of Commerce officers admitted.

With a view to getting the big plant in operation again, the Chamber of Commerce has been in frequent communication with McQuay officials. Chamber officers said they had offered the company full cooperation in any move that would lead to the re-opening of the plant.

Layman said the auction would be conducted by a nationally known auction firm, probably the Industrial Plants Corp. of Chicago. The sale, he said, would be advertised across the country through brochures sent out from a comprehensive mailing list made up by the auction firm.

Layman made no specific estimates of the crowd that was expected, but he did say special busses probably would be run here from Columbus to bring in prospective buyers who might come that far by plane.

Plant Being Readied

The plant and equipment are now being readied for the sale, Layman said. There has been very little activity there for several months, but a maintenance force has been kept on.

Virtually all of the complicated machines that were set in the plant to turn out precision parts for airplanes during the war are still on the floor, Layman said.

The API went under the control of McQuay, Inc., several months ago through a merger. Shortly after the deal was completed, operations came to a virtual halt. The more than a thousand men and women who turned out vital war equipment three years ago have long since moved to other jobs.

During the war, the API was the biggest industrial enterprise in Washington C. H. The plant out South Fayette Street was a beehive of activity day and night.

Two Miners Crushed

ATHENS, June 17—(AP)—Two miners were killed in a slate and rock fall in the White Diamond Coal Company mine near Carbondale yesterday. The victims, who died of a broken neck, were Otto Dowler, 64, of New Marshall and Matthew McBride, 57, of Athens.

FROM Chungking, China, comes the strange story of this 19-year-old girl, Yang Mei, who hasn't eaten for nine years. Recently she was under medical supervision for 19 days during which she took only occasional sips of water. The girl told doctors she suffered severe gastric pains nine years ago and hasn't eaten since. She weighs 85 pounds and appears to be normal. (International)

Boy Dragged by Car Dies from Injuries

WILMINGTON, June 17—(AP)—James Clemmer, 17, died today several hours after having been dragged nearly a mile by an automobile on Guernyville Pike, State Highway Patrolman W. M. Wells said.

Wells said the boy told him he started to walk from Wilmington to his home five miles northwest of here, got tired, sat down on the edge of the road and went to sleep.

George H. Wright, 24, who lives a few miles northwest of Wilmington, was quoted by Wells as saying he saw what appeared to be "a bundle of rags" on the road while driving home and straddled it.

After his car began dragging, he stopped about seven-tenths of a mile away and found Clemmer's right leg caught between the chassis and one of the automobile wheels, according to Wells.

Clemmer was conscious at the time, according to Wright. He died four hours later in Hale Hospital. He was the son of Mrs. Rosa Clemmer.

Crosley Motor Sales Now Show Increase

CINCINNATI, June 17—(AP)—Crosley Motor, Inc., sales for the nine months ending April 30 exceeded those for the entire previous year by more than $5,000,000, Powell Crosley, Jr., said in a financial statement to stockholders today.

Sales for the nine-month period were $17,203,857 against the $12,073,721 for the previous year, Crosley said. Earnings per common share for the nine months were $1.42 as against 85 cents a share for the previous year ending July 31, 1947, he reported.

4,400 More War Dead En Route from England

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP)—The remains of 4,400 Americans who died in the last war and were buried in the British Isles will arrive here June 27 on the American transport Lawrence Victory.

Army port of embarkation officers said yesterday that to avoid causing the next of kin prolonged anxiety the identities of those being brought back will be withheld until three days before arrival.

Girl Coming from England To Ohio Town's Celebration

BURTON, June 17—(AP)—Burton, England, for which this Geauga County village was named, is sending "an attractive young lady" by airplane to help celebrate the Ohio town's sesquicentennial Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Mary Dell Whitfield, 18, is scheduled to leave London airport tomorrow, arrive at La Guardia field in New York Saturday morning, and be met at Cleveland airport Saturday afternoon by Burton village officials.

Major B. J. Shanower, who for years has been exchanging Christmas greetings with the mayor of Burton, England, invited the English mayor to send a representative to the local celebration.

Draft Bill Caught in Jam

Drastic Revision Is Under Way

Approval of Measure Remains in Doubt

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—The House draft bill, already drastically revised, headed into more trouble today.

Opponents said they have "an outside chance" of beating it; supporters predicted it will be passed before the day is over, but the day may be a long one.

In two tentative decisions yesterday the House voted to cut the term of draft service from two years to one and to junk plans for a special registration and draft of medical men. Both actions may be subject to later roll call votes.

The tallest remaining hurdle appeared to be a proposal by Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.) to pass the bill but put off any actual drafting at least until after January 31, pending a stepped up recruiting drive.

This plan has the support of rules Chairman Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) and Rep. Harness (R-Ind.), both of whom oppose the draft and have been critical of army recruiting activities.

Shafer spent yesterday button-holing House members, and told reporters his plan "has a very good chance" of being adopted. It probably will come to a vote late in the day.

Doers of the two-year draft revival measure were jubilant after the House voted 156 to 88 to cut the period of service from 24 months to 12.

When the House bill is passed, it will go to a conference committee to work out difference between it and the bill passed by the Senate last week. The Senate bill calls for two years' service, and Coudert told the House 18 months would be a logical compromise.

As yesterday's debate started, the House tentatively accepted a "pull-the-trigger" amendment by Andrews. It would postpone inductions until the president proclaimed that the armed services cannot get enough men voluntarily.

The president could not issue the proclamation until 75 days after the bill becomes law. A similar provision was voted down in the Senate.

Then came the decision to drop the special registration and draft provided for physicians, dentists, veterinarians, osteopaths, pharmacists, and optometrists. The bill would have allowed drafting men of these professions up to 45 years old.

His proposal would hold off registration and inductions until the president and Congress agreed—on Jan. 31, 1949, or later—that an intensive recruiting campaign had failed to produce enough manpower for the services. The president would have to proclaim such a failure, and Congress would consent to starting the draft by passing a resolution.

GOP Platform Committee Suddenly Faces Racial Issue

PHILADELPHIA, June 17—(AP)—The race issue broke in the Republican platform committee today as a delegate from Texas protested that no southerner had been assigned to the subcommittee that will write the GOP plank on civil rights.

Orville Bullington, of Wichita Falls, Tex., arose in the committee session to tell Chairman Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., that "the south is more interested in this question than anything else." He demanded that southern delegate be put on the civil rights committee.

Lodge, a Massachusetts senator, told the 104-member platform group that it was in order for members to swap their committee assignments if they desire.

Mrs. Agnes Jones Gifford, South Orange, N. J., immediately announced that she would yield her civil rights committee post to Bullington. The Texan then was assigned to this committee and Mrs. Gifford took his place on the subcommittee dealing with economics and small business.

This dramatic development occurred shortly after the platform committee had organized, electing Lodge as its chairman and designating nine subcommittees to

Boom for Vandenberg Gathering Momentum

Stassen Evasive and Brown Disturbed By Developments as Convention Nears

PHILADELPHIA, June 17—(AP)—Harold E. Stassen conceded today he will be third man on the first presidential nominating ballot at the GOP convention opening here Monday.

But the former Minnesota governor told a news conference shortly after his arrival he remains confident he will win the nomination by the ninth ballot.

"I am here to lead the liberal and younger forces of the Republican party in a fight to win," Stassen said.

"I expect to be in third place on the first ballot and in first place on the last."

Stassen said he thinks it is "a close question" whether Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York or Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio will be in the lead on the first convention roll call.

Stassen was asked how he views the possible candidacy of Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. Vandenberg is being boomed in certain quarters as a dark horse candidate in the event of a deadlock.

"I consider Sen. Vandenberg to be one of the outstanding statesmen of the Republican party," Stassen said.

"I make no attempt to anticipate what his moves will be in this convention," Stassen said.

Stassen poked at Dewey's recent invasion of Maine with the assertion that he, and not the New Yorker, will get the majority of Maine's presidential votes.

Stassen was asked if there is any truth in rumors that he might accept second place on a ticket headed by Taft. He said that since he first developed delegate strength, rumors had lingered with almost every rival in the field.

"I continue to be a candidate for the presidential nomination and will be when the roll is called at the convention," he declared.

Close associates of Senator Vandenberg said unless he changes plans, he will permit the presidential voting to take its course without any statement from him.

Vandenberg's position in the nominating contest was among the principal topics of conversation as delegates moved in for the 23rd try of the Republican party to nominate a president.

Amid indications that Gov. Dewey generally is looked upon as the man to beat, delegates clustered in hotel corridors to talk about the threat that Vandenberg poses as a dark horse.

From a person close to the Michigan senator it was learned that (Please Turn to Page Two)

Vacation Precautions at Home

Take a Tip on Burglary Prevention

A word of caution from both Police Chief D. Valden Long and Sheriff Orland Hays to folks planning to leave Washington C. H. for rest and relaxation this summer—don't let your arrangements end with your trip itinerary.

Residence burglaries are more prevalent in the county than within the city limits. Sheriff Hays stressed that vacationers should always notify authorities of their departure. This enables them to keep a check on the home for any unexplained activity.

Vacationers should also leave word as to where they can be located.

Chief Long warned against an accumulation of delivery services, (such as milk and newspapers) which would advertise absence. He also said, if possible, arrangements should be made to have any particularly vulnerable areas of the dwelling illuminated at night. (More than 81 percent of the 373,450 burglaries occurring in the country in 1947 were committed at night).

If there is a rear door or cellar entrance located on a dark side of the house where burglars can crawl unnoticed, a small light might well be kept burning there at night. Illumination will depend on the individual circumstances.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Time is short... but the human impulse to say a few thousand well-chosen words is strong...

The House is debating the draft bill. Nobody doubts the outcome. The House will pass it, just as the Senate did. We'll have a draft law.

The mind of every House member already must be made up on how he'll vote. Speechmaking at this point won't change his mind. At least, it shouldn't.

The draft problem has been kicking around Congress for months. Every member has had a chance to look into it carefully and think about it.

He's had a chance to read all sides of the argument. He's talked with other congressmen. And he's been drowned in mail from the folks back home.

So it would be quick and easy if the House just voted and got the draft out of the way, except maybe for trying to make a few changes in the bill.

It would help, too. The House has plenty of work to do, plenty of other bills to tackle. It's trying to finish up by the end of the week. It wouldn't be Congress without a debate.

So in relays congressmen parade up to the microphone and tee off... "My dear colleagues..." one of them starts. He's against the bill.

For or against, the parade goes on. Each congressman gets four or five minutes. He waves his arms, pounds the table, juts his chin, shouts.

The visitors to the galleries, seeing the House in action for the first time, lean forward, entranced.

No so the newsmen in the press gallery. They sit there every day, looking down at the same sight, the same heat, the same speakers on other subjects.

Most of the speakers wander up, say their say, and wander back to their seats without applause from their fellows waiting for a chance to do the same thing.

Once in a while a certain congressman gets a good hand before he starts and when he finishes.

Dewey Short of Missouri, for instance. Short, a Republican who's against the bill, is probably the best speaker in the House.

When he got up to the microphone yesterday, congressmen who had been outside smoking threw away their cigarettes and flocked in to hear him.

This was a tribute to Short's eloquence. It didn't mean his listeners were crowding in to be persuaded by what he said.

When the House put up the shutters for the day yesterday, this writer called one of the congressmen who had been listening all day.

"Do you think anyone's mind was changed by all the speech-making?"

"Not one," he said. "Why then bother to talk? Maybe three reasons:

1. Some congressmen feel so strongly about the draft, one way or the other, that they have to say something.

2. Some probably just like to hear themselves talk.

3. And some want to get on record so they can mail a copy of their speech to voters back home.

It doesn't cost them a lot to mail their speeches back to the voters in their district and all 435 seats in the House are at stake in this year's elections.

It may cost a congressman $13 to $14 to have 1,000 copies of a page-long speech in the congressional record run off for him by the government printer.

For each succeeding 1,000 copies, the cost is less.

And then the congressman can mail the speech postage free by enclosing it in a franked envelope.

The real job on this bill, or any bill, comes when the time arrives for offering amendments, or changes.

The speechmaking always precedes the offering of amendments.

The House votes on each amendment. If all amendments are voted down, the bill sails through untouched. By adding amendments, the House strengthens or weakens a bill.

Senators Vote 'Yes'

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Sens. John W. Bricker and Robert A. Taft of Ohio voted yesterday to return foreign aid spending to a 12-month basis. The amendment was approved, 64-15.

Old City Dump May Soon Get Some Attention

Refuse to be Burned And Earth Used To Seal It Over

The old city dump is just about the same as it was before the rat exterminating campaign started, except no more refuse is being dumped upon it, and the rat population is decidedly less than it was.

City Manager W. W. Hill said Thursday that because there has been so many other things to keep them busy, city workmen have been unable to take up the matter of cleaning the dump and sealing it over, insofar as possible.

He said that within a short time a crew will be put to work collecting and burning all inflammable refuse and dirt will be hauled to help seal over the dump so that it will not be such an ideal place for rats.

With elimination of garbage placed in the old dump, food for the rats automatically has been cut off, and it is expected that most of the rodents still in the dump will scatter to other points where there is garbage.

Meanwhile the new city dump is running smoothly, with all garbage and refuse being covered over to a depth where rats are not liable to bother it, and where handling the rat problem is a much easier matter.

Farm Population Shows Decrease

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Farm population on Jan. 1, 1948, was 10.2 per cent below levels recorded in the 1940 census.

Summarizing rural population trends, the census bureau noted that military demobilization and a high birth rate were big factors in a partial recovery of farm population from its low of January, 1945.

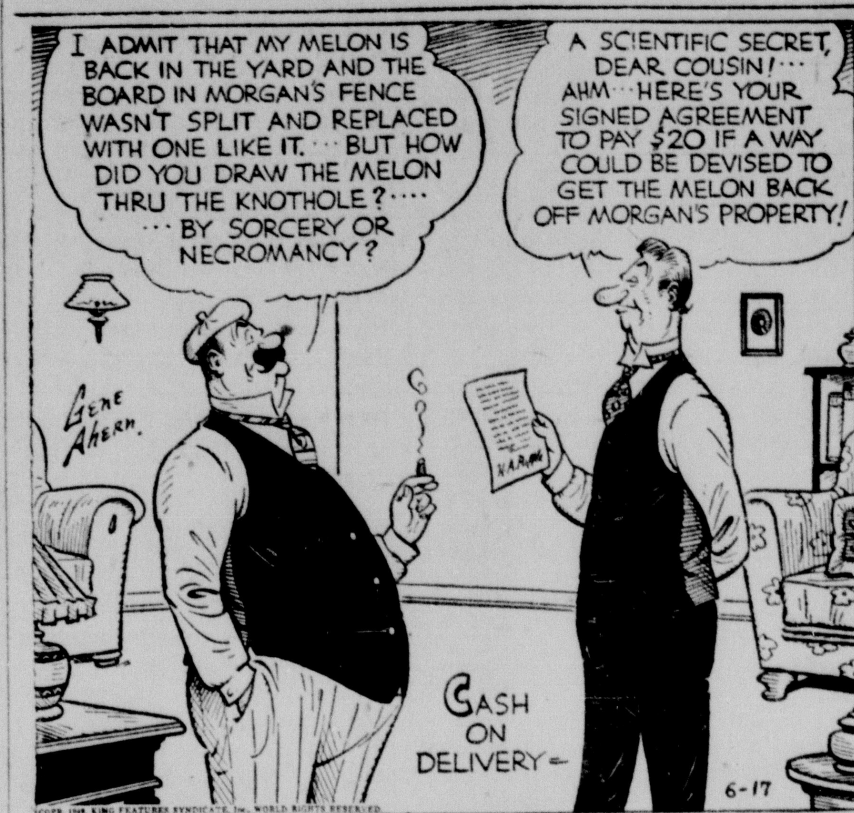

Thus the 27,439,000 people living on farms this past January represented a gain of 2,249,000 over the number there in 1945.

The bureau said latest available figures (1947) indicate that most of the exodus away from farms occurred in age groups under 25 years.

In the older categories, the farm population remained about the same from 1940 to 1947.

Russian Propaganda!

Cincinnati Called 'Estate of Taft Clan' Where Voices of Society Are Smothered

MOSCOW, June 17—(AP)—A Russian geography magazine calls Cincinnati "a large estate and patrimony of the Taft clan."

The Ohio city is the home of Sen. Robert A. Taft, contender for the Republican presidential nomination.

The article in Vokrug Sveta, which means "around the world," was signed by S. Kozelski, who recently visited Cincinnati.

He said the city is beautiful if seen from Eden Park, but not so pretty when seen from what he called the 150-block "Negro Ghetto."

The writer asserted Cincinnati is a "center of mercenary politicking, an arena of unbridled racism and humanity-hating."

Kozelski said that even to get out of town, he had to pay a tribute to the Tafts in the price of a railway ticket. He said most of the railway (which was not named) belonged to the Tafts.

Cincinnati was termed "the largest industrial and cultural center" in Ohio, a statement which Cleveland might dispute.

The writer asserted the newspapers and radios in Cincinnati are controlled.

"All voices of society are strongly smothered," the writer went on. He said the Times-Star belongs to the Tafts, the Enquirer to the MacLean family and the Post to Scripps-Howard and added:

"You can't write there." He said a "liberal journalist" had been fired from the Times-Star for "leftism." He said one of Cincinnati's radio stations belongs to the Cincinnati subway. Kozelski said Charles Taft, the senator's brother, is trying to get the city to rent the completed part of the subway for freight transport at an insignificant price, or to use the space for a central heating system.

The article was principally an attack on the Taft family rather than on the city itself.

Kozelski said the Tafts owned a large part of the land, the underground network of cables and pipes, buildings, light, gas, taxis, streetcars, buses, newspapers and theatrical presentations in Cincinnati.

He estimated the wealth of Sen. Taft and his family at from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Some Motorists Are Childish Showoffs

Traffic regulations are not framed for the annoyance of motorists, nor do police and traffic officials, who act in their enforcement, do their work in a spirit of persecution.

Occasionally there may be an officer who grows over-officious some place but by far the great majority are reasonably courteous and do not grow tough unless there is a very careless and wilful violation or some driver attempts to get nasty with an officer who stops him.

On a few occasions here in Washington C. H. one who listens in on the talk of a few motorists would be likely to get the impression that traffic officers or patrolmen are out to "get" them regardless of anything they do. We would be willing to place a little bet that if the incidents they refer to are investigated, nine times out of 10, the motorist who was stopped or reprimanded, would be in the wrong.

With the advent of good weather the "silly season" for some motorists starts. There are too many drivers who throw caution to the winds and resent any attempt to curb their recklessness. Some watch the rear-view mirror for the approach of a police car, meantime breaking all rules of traffic on the theory they won't be "caught." They gleefully report to cronies how they "gave the cop the slip," boast of their 75 and 85-miles-an-hour speed and otherwise flout the laws of the highway.

Mature and orderly individuals realize that traffic laws are made and enforced for the protection of all. They sensibly try to observe them. They have some thought and regard for the lives of other people and respect for other motorists and cars as well as pedestrians.

Reckless drivers, are for the most part, merely childish exhibitionists. When they get in a "jam" they deserve very little sympathy. The person who drives while under the influence of liquor deserves no sympathy at all.

No Chance For Change

One of the most terrible things about a totalitarian government is that it destroys the power of the people to change the government. If any of the Czechs were in doubt about that fact before their recent election, they should know now how the totalitarian system works.

It was an election between two sides—the government side and no side. An elector could vote for the government ticket, or he could cast a blank ballot, if he dared. He went to the polls knowing that if he protested against the government by use of the blank ballot, local officials would know that he had done so.

It is surprising that the brave souls who went to the voting booth to register their discontent were so many.

The stifling of opposition is a deadly thing. It is resorted to only by those who know that they could not long remain in power if opposition were possible.

Bolts And Strikes

Alabama Democrats, says State Chairman G. T. McCorvey, will not bolt if President Truman is renominated and a platform adopted that indorses his civil rights program. They will merely walk out of the convention and vote for someone else. This would not be a bolt, we are told, but a refusal to affiliate with the national Democratic party.

McCorvey must have been reading the literary works of John L. Lewis. His statement, that a refusal to affiliate is not a bolt, sounds just like Lewis' statement that a wholesale refusal to work is not a strike.

John L. Lewis likes to kick the law around, but it's still tough.

Around World in a Single Daze

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever been around the world in a single daze?

That's the way I travel when my pocketbook is already too pleasure-bent to support a journey. I buy a hypothetical hop to anywhere I choose and enjoy it at home.

It's the only way I know that two can travel as cheaply as one. I go first cabin, take Frances along and scatter $5 tips like grass seed.

I don't have to look at museums I never wanted to see. I don't have to admire the dilapidated grandeur of local ruins pointed out by a guide whose dogged good nature doesn't hide the fact he's tired of them, too. I don't have to fall for Niagara Falls or lean toward the Leaning Tower of Pisa—unless my bent inclines that way. I don't have to get accustomed to the local customs, or be a customer of the customs men.

Like Stephen Leacock's hero, I can jump on my horse and ride off in all directions—at once. How?

I have an old game I've been playing. Walter Mitty style, since I was knee-high to a Rand-McNally. It's called "supposing." It begins with, "supposing somebody gave you $10,000 and said you could travel anywhere in the world. Where'd you go?"

You get out the atlas and the battered school geography—the big one you used to hide your Frank Merriwell book inside during class. Then you figure out where your money will buy the most adventure—and you scoot off on your jet-propelled imagination.

Over the years I've changed my mind often about where I'd like to spend the $10,000 donated by the mysterious stranger. As a child I was fascinated with pictures of strange, faroff places. I suppose my first choice, now as then, would be to spend three months taking the pulse of the heart of darkest Africa. But I also suppose they throw the voodoo music now on a drum mail-ordered from darkest London.

During the war I was in 51 countries. Many were lands I had yearned to see in boyhood, they draw me no more, particularly the large, sick, civilized places. Too many of them have "American bars" and specialize in "Yankee malted milks," innocent of ice cream, and off-beat jazz bands, guilty of musical murder.

But omitting the out-of-the-way places like the Brazilian jungle and the Isle of Bal, where the slim brown girls walk with water jugs on their heads, graceful as panthers, I'd most like to see three countries I missed—New Zealand, Finland, and Ireland.

New Zealand was the only country I didn't get to visit in the Far East. I'd like to go there because other travelers have told me it is the most civilized country in the world and people live longer there than anywhere else. I'd like to find out why.

Why Ireland? Not so much because its green and beautiful, but because every American in his heart wants to go back and see where his ancestors came from. I want to check up on whether the English really ran my grandfather out—as he said, or whether his neighbors did.

As for Finland, no one I've known who has been there has anything but admiration for the honesty and courage of its people. I want to have a look at this small tough land whose independence even the Russians have come to respect.

There goes my mythical $10,000—and it'll give me a ten grand time. Where would you spend yours—in a wonderful one-daze journey?

Desperation of Harry Truman

By George E. Sokolsky

Few presidents have quite faced the situation that finds Harry Truman desperate to the point of hysteria. For only a hysterical or dishonest man could have described the 80th Congress as the worst in American history. After all, it has not been a "rubber stamp" Congress of which servility Harry Truman partook as a member of the Senate. It has had a record of hard work, of constructive legislation, of great decisions on domestic and international policy.

Harry Truman's despair does not arise from the prospect of defeat by the Republicans as much as from a knowledge that his own party has turned upon him. He has lost the confidence of his own associates. In fact, he has, in some matters, acted with such infantile petulance that no one can explain what he had hoped to accomplish. He is seeking an issue, a rallying point, and finding none at hand, hopes to use Congress as a whipping boy. He apparently will say anything, like his talking about what a good guy his pal Joe Stalin is, no matter what we think of Joe, he is the head of a state and it sounds cheap and vulgar for the president of the United States to refer to the prime minister of another state in the language Truman used for Stalin. I am sure it did not take one vote from Wallace.

This business of not permitting Democratic state leaders to travel on his train arises from a fiction that this is an inspection tour by the president of the United States, not a political tour by the Democratic aspirant for the presidential nomination.

The reason for the fiction is money. If President Truman, as president, is traveling, the expenses are paid out of the treasury of the United States. Mr. Truman has no private means: His salary as president is altogether inadequate, particularly after income tax reductions. The Democratic national committee is as financially flat as it is intellectually and politically. So Mr. Truman could only have taken this trip at the people's expense, as his predecessor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, had done before him with less justification.

Also, there is the matter of radio time. As president of the United States, Mr. Truman is entitled to many courtesies: As a political aspirant, he is entitled to what he can get, the same as anybody else.

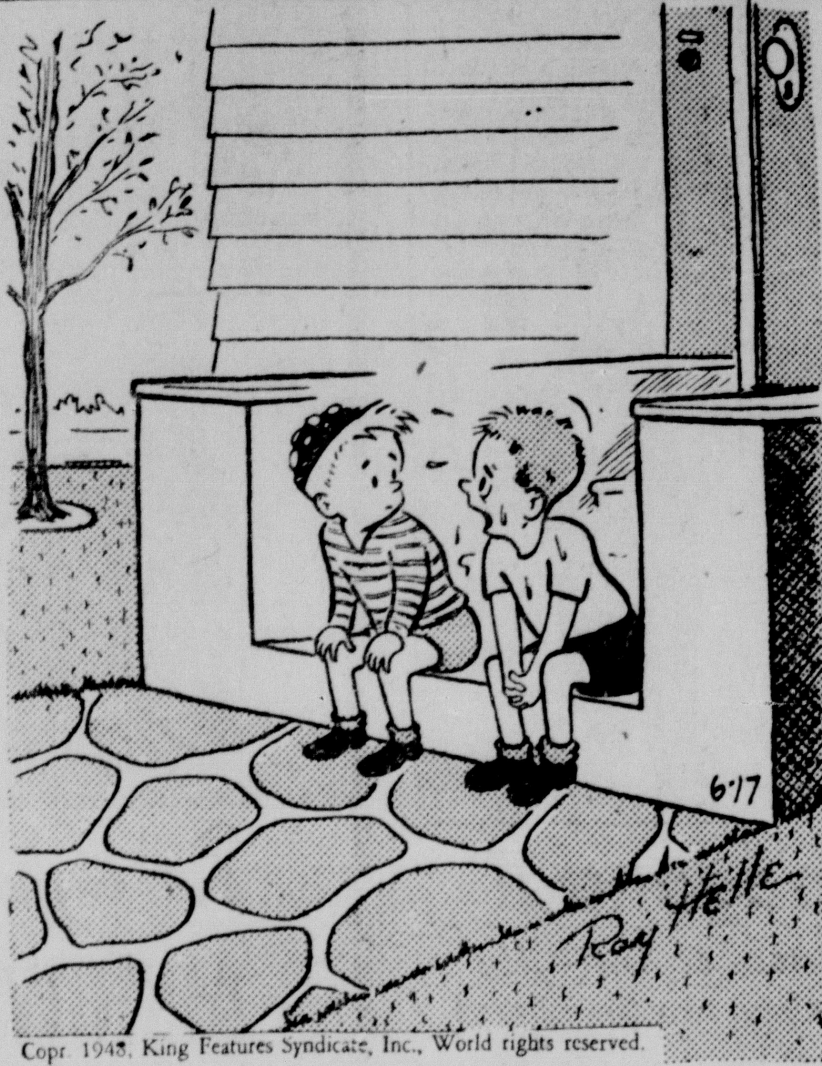

any moral sense of propriety. But then, Mr. Roosevelt had the advantage of a war to cover up for him and to provide a censorship for reasons of "national security." Nothing like that is available for Harry Truman. So he not only kept the politicians off the train, but as I understand it, he kept them off the arrangement committees in the various cities.

For instance, Lester Loble, chairman of the Democratic state central committee of Montana, is reported to have said concerning the visit to Montana: "I have not changed by opinion as previously stated. This reception was arranged by the Republicans. That's all I have to say."

That is undoubtedly correct because when I was in Butte, some of my friends, ardent Republicans, were preparing for the visit of the president of the United States. Without them, it is doubtful whether the greeting could have been a success, but how does that help the Democratic leader of the state who is faced with the necessity of trying not only to elect President Truman but to re-elect Senator Murray, whose chances are practically nil? Harry Truman's visit to Montana paritically guaranteed the local Republican candidates their election.

Perhaps that is why in his non-political way, Harry Truman made a special appeal for Senator James E. Murray and Congressman Mike Mansfield. Of course, there was no politics in that, only the president reminiscing about old friends. Nobody can naturally be so crude.

Diet and Health Vitamin Deficiency Cause of Rickets

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

RICKETS is a condition due to lack of vitamin D, sometimes known as the "sunshine" vitamin. Formed by the body itself in the presence of sunshine, it is essential to strong bones and good general health. Without it, neither calcium nor phosphorus can be used by the body.

In consequence the bones are softened to the point where they cannot do their job of supporting the weight. For this reason, the baby with rickets is likely to develop bow-legs and other deformities. He also has weak, flabby muscles, sweats a great deal, and grows cross and irritable.

Two Weeks Old

Of late years babies have been protected against this disease by the giving of preparations containing vitamin D, beginning when they are about two weeks old. Sometimes, particularly in the case of premature babies who are more susceptible to rickets than those born at full term, it is started earlier.

Recently a cheaper and more convenient way of doing this has been discovered. Studies have been carried out not only on animals, but also with infants, which show that it is possible to protect normal babies against rickets for a period varying from six to twelve months by giving them a series of injections of vitamin D in oil. The injection is given into a muscle.

It is suggested that the best time for the use of this preventive measure is on the eighth day after birth. At first, 25,000 units of the vitamin D were employed; later on, this was reduced to one-fourth of this.

amount. However, in order to be more certain that the rickets will be prevented, it is recommended that 12,500 units be given to protect the infant against rickets, especially when it is living in a region where, during the fall and winter months, sunshine is greatly reduced. The smaller dose may be used in climates where exposure to sunshine during the fall and winter months can be more liberal.

Full Dose

Premature infants are given the full dose of 12,500 units during the winter period and the same dose during the summer period.

There would seem to be no objection to repeating the injections of vitamin D each year during the latter part of September or the early part of October.

It would appear from the studies already made that such a method of preventing rickets is quite satisfactory and should be used if additional studies confirm the studies already reported.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. S.: Will you please tell me if an enlarged liver ever returns to its normal size? Is it dangerous?

Answer: An enlarged liver may return to its normal size; however, this depends on the cause of the enlargement.

Some cases of enlarged liver are serious, such as those due to cirrhosis or hardening. The liver may also become enlarged as a result of heart failure, due to congestion of blood in the liver. A thorough study should be made to determine the cause of the difficulty; then proper treatment may be suggested.

Rocket Plane After Record

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—The air force plans to send its Bell X-1 rocket plane hurtling toward 1,700 miles an hour in a new series of high altitude speed tests beyond nature's "sonic wall."

This was learned today from persons familiar with the long range program for investigating supersonic flight. That strange—and until last year unexplored—region of speeds faster than sound. Five men are known to have smashed through that barrier at altitudes generally about eight to ten miles above the earth.

The new tests are expected to take the rocket ship up to 80,000 feet—about 15 miles—which would be the highest man has ever attained.

Two army fliers set the world record of 72,394 feet in a balloon in 1935. The highest plane mark is 59,492 feet, set in March by a British jet fighter.

Russia Balks At Unification

LONDON, June 17—(AP)—A Soviet embassy spokesman said today Russia has informed Britain she cannot accept the six-power London agreement to set up a separate west German government.

The spokesman said Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin told Sir William Strang, chairman of the six-power conference, on June 7 that Russia regards the agreement as a violation of the Potsdam pact.

The text of the accord was sent to the Soviets before it was released for publication June 7.

Even during the negotiations, which produced the agreement, Moscow radio and Soviet newspapers indicated it would not be acceptable to the Russian government so their rejection today was not altogether unexpected.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

How to Live Longer

Someone asked Pappy Miller last week how he stayed so spry at ninety. Pappy told him:

"Well, sir—when I work, I work hard. When I set, I set loose. When I think, I go to sleep."

According to Doc Hollister, that formula isn't far amiss. "Hard work," says Doc, "never wore out anyone before his time, providing he knew how and when to relax."

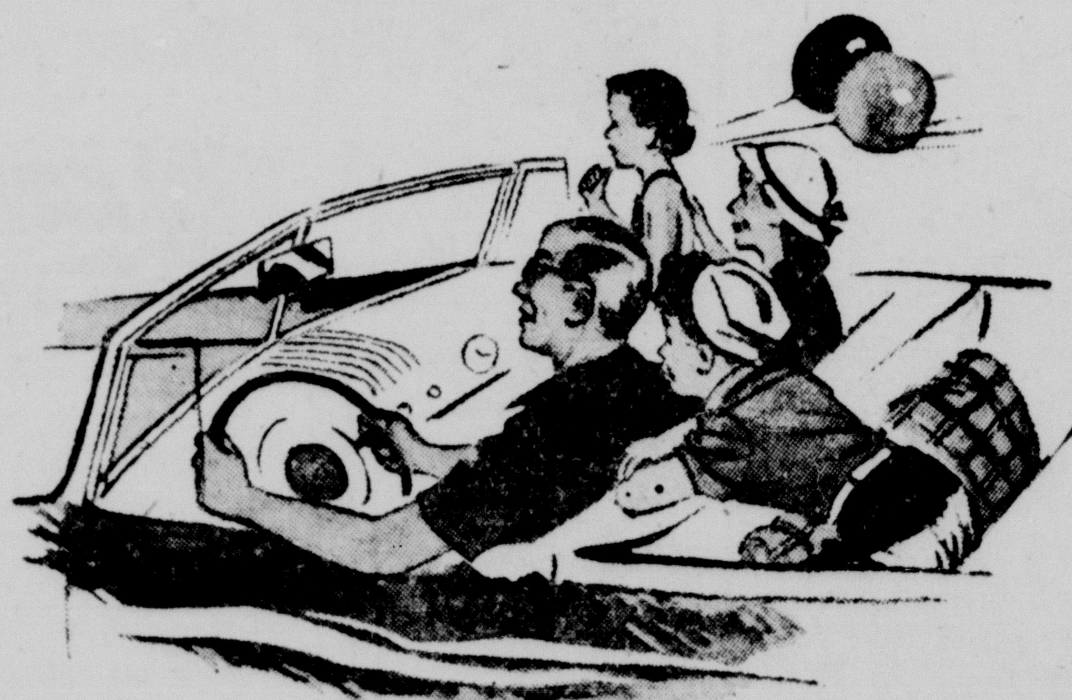

Doc himself works overtime, with his daytime patients at the office, and his evening calls. And when he gets home he takes it easy with a mellow glass of beer and chats with the missus until it's time to go to bed.

From where I sit, relaxing is a fine art—especially in these tense, fast-moving times. And there's nothing like a temperate glass of beer—enjoyed with pleasant company—to restore that easy frame of mind that one needs after a hard day's work.

Be-Bop Battle Alerts Czechs Since Red Coup

Russians Consider American Music Too 'Capitalistic'

PRAGUE—(AP)—Be-bop is getting its bumps in a five-sided musical war here.

But, if it has to, it promises to go down be-bopping alongside its American jazz companions in the face of a threatened flood of Slavic da-da-da-da.

The war has taken on political overtones since the government changes in February. Before that it was strictly a fight by lovers of New Orleans jazz, headed by purist Ansel Meacham, trying to head off the encroachment of sweet music, boogie and be-bop.

Slavic music was in a class by itself—sacrosanct. Smetana and Dvorak, the top Czechoslovak composers, were played everywhere, but strictly for longhairs, sentimentalists and state events.

Russian and Polish composers were in much the same class. There was only mild patriotic apprehension that American music, even the "adapted" versions of Chopin and Khatchaturian, would force out the folk music of central Europe, which was glorified at white tie concerts and played in village taverns.

But along with everything else since February, musical ears and eyes are cocked eastward. Already a super-patriotic group in the all-powerful trades union has demanded that the playing of Slav music be stepped up on the Czech radio and everywhere else.

The da-da-da-da of the "Volga Boatmen's" song, if they had their way, would supplant the sweet strains of the imperialistic "beautiful Ohio," the boogie of "Red River Rag," or be-bop as brayed by the bellmen around the Harlem River.

A mild exception might be made for "Old Man River" because that is considered in the Negro spiritual class heretofore. Other Gershwin music might pass on the same score. It is all part of the Slav demonstration of indignation, this far away, about problems of the Negro in the United States.

But other capitalistic music—phooey!

How strong a campaign the Slav music patriots can muster remains to be seen. The trades union people, all-powerful in the political field, haven't got a Petrillo and can't develop one overnight.

The American music advocates sneer down their clarinets and trombones at the demand. "They're nothing but a bunch of trum-trara-da oldtimers who are satisfied with polkas and they won't get far," it was prophesied. "Youth wants American music and youth will get it."

Uggs would throw all the rest of American music into the Vltava River if you leave him New Orleans jazz. Although he plays no instrument, he's a hot man on a phonograph and his record library is the envy of Prague.

The be-boppers go on playing their trade every minute they can. They're headed by Jan Hammer, whom many consider Europe's best on a vibraphone, but who swings with equal to piano, vibraphone and bass and tickles teenagers with his hot vocal licks on "Nellie Gray," "Sunnyside of the Street" and the newly popular "Cement Mixer."

Hammer, a devotee of Lionel Hampton, has just taken a degree in medicine at Charles University. He and his wife, the singer Vlasta Hammerova - Pruchova, recently became parents of a son. But for all his professional and family cares, he is happiest with his "Rhythmus 48" combination that plays nightly at the Pygmalion Club, where the proprietors accept be-bop as a paying proposition.

Hammer has gathered around him a bunch of dizzy Gillespie fans familiar to American soldiers who were stationed in Pilsen after the war. They include young Dunca Broz, a hot trumpeter; Mirek Vrbka, a tiny drummer who riles big breaks, and Ladislav Horcik, a mad man on a piano.

POLITICAL CONVENTION STILL WEEK AWAY BUT PHILADELPHIA BUZZES WITH ACTIVITY

CONVENTION HALL—Here, in Philadelphia, the next president of the United States will be nominated.

By ESTHER V. W. TUFTY
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Philadelphia is already an occupied city. Republican and Democratic delegates will not arrive until June 21 and July 12 to pick the next presidential candidates. But last October, the Republicans established a beachhead. In December, the Democrats went in with a task force.

Today, both have headquarters in the beautiful "Republican-looking" Bellevue-Stratford hotel and there is much advance busy-ness to secure housing, badges, palms and other details which go with nominating a president in a democracy.

The real occupation will come when the press moves in—some two days before each convention. Three thousand newspaper reporters are expected (one and a fourth reporter to each delegate). Harold Beckley, press superintendent of the convention, says there will be 845 press seats on the press stand; 200 radio, and 75 for magazine and periodical writers.

However, this does not include all the desk men, telegraph operators, and "leg men" who will not work in Convention auditorium itself.

FOR THE FIRST TIME on a large scale, the conventions will be televised, requiring a minimum of 300 men—engineers and interviewers. Major networks have already divided up the days of each convention to televise the main proceedings.

Each network will have on-the-spot television from hotel rooms and lobbies so Americans can actually see the "smoke-filled rooms" of a national convention. The shows will be transcribed directly on the east coast, re-broadcast to Chicago and the west coast.

A museum, adjacent to Convention hall, has been rigged up for television to hold the overflow which the auditorium will not house.

Naturally, the candidates have been busy. An unconfirmed but persistent rumor has it that Harold E. Stassen has reserved the best suite in the Bellevue-Stratford for campaign headquarters and that his backers have a stranglehold on some 40 rooms to divvy out to strategic and potential backers.

New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey also has Bellevue-Stratford headquarters. California's Gov. Earl Warren and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R), Michigan, have chosen the more dignified and higher-priced Warwick hotel. Senator Robert A. Taft (R), Ohio, is down at the Benjamin Franklin where the late Wendell Willkie made the grade in 1940.

The wisest candidates have also reserved a "hideaway" where they can grab a nap or a "cozy deal" now-and-then.

The city of Philadelphia is expressing its brotherly love by repainting and redecorating Convention hall to the tune of one-half a million dollars.

Special elevators are under construction to carry ice to the cooling-system expected to keep the "hot" conventions cooler.

Convention hall holds 13,000 people. Admittance will be by ticket only. First choice goes to the delegates. (The Republicans have 2,100 delegates and alternates; the Democrats have 3,192.)

Next priority goes to distinguished guests (senators, congressmen, former national committee members, governors and diplomats).

Each national committeeman and committeewoman gets a block of tickets for home state people. Some four thousand are left for the general public to be handed out by the mayor of Philadelphia's convention committee.

THE 1948 POLITICAL conventions promise to be flamboyant with color. Badges will be elaborate for the first time since the war. Large in size, they will carry a Philadelphia motif.

Scores of bands in the area are "on call," some already quietly signed by candidates. Philadelphia's taxicabs are being recruited and will be "free" to the press.

Entertainment promises to be flamboyant, too, and plentiful. The Pennsylvania railroad will, as usual, have a room near the Convention hall for the press with free beer, sandwiches and television for relaxation.

Mrs. Worthington Scranton, well-known Pennsylvania Republican, is arranging an extensive hospitality program for the Republican convention. As "official hostess," she has a large corps of volunteers which will have information booths in department stores and hotels to aid the out-of-town visitors.

Washington's No. 1 party giver, Mrs. Perle Mesta, is a delegate from Rhode Island for the Democratic convention. Her customary parties at both conventions are expected to get a repeat.

Apparently the only detail overlooked is the Philadelphia water—notorious around-the-world—which was aptly described by one wag "As the only water in the world which you have to chew."

Committee in Disagreement Over Gandhi's Bloody Clothes

By R. SAKATOPAN

NEW DELHI —(AP)—Should Mahatma Gandhi's clothes be preserved for posterity in their blood-stained condition?

That's a serious question for the Mahatma relics preservation committee and opinion is sharply divided.

K. G. Mashruwala, editor of Gandhi's weekly "Harijan," says: "personally I do not feel much interested in merely preserving things used by Gandhi xxx but if his last clothes are to be preserved, they should be washed and cleared of bloodstains."

"Writing in the 'Harijan,' he quoted a young correspondent who warned 'lest blind devotion to the Mahatma lead us into grave error and his life-long work rendered nugatory by his own children and followers by preserving things indicating hatred—not love.'"

There are others, Mashruwala says, who consider bloodstains to be impure, and still others who will be moved to feelings of hatred "not only against the assassin, but toward the whole community to which he belonged."

But there are some like Kala Kalekar, a life-long disciple of Gandhi, who feel that much can be said for both sides.

They argue that "the sight of blood-stained garments would arouse no feeling of hatred against the murderer, but instead, would inspire with feelings of gratitude for the Mahatma and to imitate him in banishing 'fear from the heart.'"

They say that although such material aids to arouse noble sentiments are not worthy of encouragement, yet there is nothing wrong in making use of them.

Future generations, they add, will be set to thinking on looking at them and they will have feelings of respect for the apostle of truth, love and non-violence.

The matter will be decided finally soon by the relics preservation committee.

Superstitions Are Punctured By New Book

Origins Explained For Many Actions And Weird Beliefs

NEW YORK —(AP)—Modern men may understand the atom and the fourth dimension, but he still refuses to walk under a ladder or let a black cat cross his path.

The most mature minds cling to childhood superstitions, sometimes in fun often in earnest, says Claudia de Lys in her new book, "A Treasury of American Superstitions."

Having devoted her entire life to the study of origins of superstitious beliefs throughout the world, Miss de Lys has assembled her findings in an impressive and entertaining volume which will hold many surprises for the best informed.

Did you know, for instance, that the girl who darkens her lashes with mascara is following an ancient superstition used by primitives to ward off the "Evil Eys?"

Did you know that the wearing of earrings was started as an amulet, to bring good luck and ward off bad fortune?

How often have you heard someone say "Keep your fingers crossed!" when awaiting the outcome of a business deal, a horse race, or an expected bonanza of good luck? This superstition, one of the most widespread in modern times, dates back to the ancient belief that the sign of the cross brings good fortune, says Miss de Lys.

Many superstitions surround the subject of romance and weddings, and the overwhelming preference for white as a bridal gown may be traced back to the old verse:

The custom of throwing rice at a wedding also has ancient origins, says the author. It is believed to be a survival of ancient religious rites of the Hindus and Chinese, who believed rice to be the symbol of fertility.

The word "honeymoon" originated with the ancient Teutons, among whom a newly married couple used to be given a kind of honey wine to drink, for a period of one month or "moon" after marriage.

Fashion also is affected by folklore, says Miss de Lys, pointing out that the modern custom of wearing a triangular scarf over the head dates back to an ancient style based on the belief that the triangle was a mystic symbol, able to ward off evil spirits.

The ancients believed the hair often harbored evil spirits—hence the phrase—"He gets in his hair."

Thirteen has been considered an unlucky number ever since man learned to count, except among the Egyptians, who regarded it as lucky. The number has been called "the devil's dozen."

Britain Offering Jobs With Atoms

LONDON —(AP)—Britain is seeking seven atom scientists to put infinitesimal radioactive isotopes—by-products of an atomic pile—to work. The isotopes are used in medical research and are equally useful in friction experiments and in solving problems of lubrication.

For instances, radioactive iron has been introduced into airplane engines and the amount appearing in the lubricating oil has been used to gauge the extent of wear due to friction. In agriculture, radioactive isotopes will enable research groups to study more closely the processes of growth.

The atom scientist jobs will pay

$1,440 to $4,880 yearly. Britain's existing atomic pile—called "the gleep"—now is producing only a small quantity of isotopes but a new pile is being put into operation.

Former Resident and Husband To Sail On European Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mason Franklin, son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. Clarence Craig of this city, will see a four-year-old dream come true when they travel to Great Britain and Europe this summer with 18 other students accepted by the Department of Education at Yale University to make an educational field trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin, who with their two sons, have been visiting with Mrs. Franklin's mother for a few weeks, plan to sail from New York on June 25. They plan to go to New York June 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin have just returned from Norman, Oklahoma where they have been this week, on a business trip, in connection with Mr. Franklin assuming the presidency of the University of Oklahoma, at Norman, on September 1.

The men and ten women on the tour will travel under the direction of George F. Kneller, research associate in education at Yale. While in Great Britain they will study cultural institutions, factories, industries, welfare organizations, and related social and governmental agencies. A quarter of a year's credit will be given the Franklins on completion of the 2,000 mile trip.

Mrs. Franklin stated, that she and her husband, who received a law degree from the University of Virginia at Charlottesville in June, have planned the trip since their marriage in 1944.

Mr. Franklin was graduated from the University of Washington and taught accounting for three years at the University of Alaska. He took graduate work at Stanford University, Columbia University and the Harvard University Business School, where he studied under a scholarship and later a fellowship.

Following his graduation there, Franklin became assistant to the president at Ohio State University in 1942. He was discharged from the navy in 1945 with the rank of lieutenant commander and returned to Ohio State for six months before entering the University of Virginia Law School in June, 1946.

Mrs. Franklin was graduated from Denison University and Simmons College in Boston, where she did graduate work in library science. She was a member of the faculty at Lasell Junior College in Boston. She was discharged from the WAVES in 1945.

While abroad Mr. and Mrs. Franklin plan to visit in Germany with her brother Andrew who is with the American Military Government there. They plan to fly back to the United States from Paris about the middle of August.

The Franklins' two sons, Craig, 2, and Sterling, 1, will remain with Mrs. Clarence Craig while their parents are abroad.

Home Builders Class Meeting

The Home Builders Class of the Madison Mills Methodist Church met Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schmidt.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Blodwen Melvin in the absence of the president, Mr. Fred LeBeau. Twenty-eight members, six children and one visitor were reported in attendance.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Mabel King and Mr. Ralph Hays. Mrs. Gladys Hays read "If You Have A Good Excuse, Don't Use It" by Harry Emerson Fosdick, which was followed by group singing.

During the business session plans were completed for the ice cream social to be held June 18th. It was announced that church services will be held in the Grange Hall while the church is being redecorated.

Tempting refreshments were served by the host and hostess assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hopkins and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Melvin.

Mrs. Glenn Brandhorst, son David, left Wednesday for their home in Manning, Iowa. Mrs. Frank Christopher, daughter Marian, motored them to Columbus from where they took the train.

Dad Makes Own Suggestions On How To Celebrate His Day

Dear Family: At first I thought a Communist spy plot was cooking around the house, the way you have all been whispering and scuttling around. Now I've remembered Father's Day is in the offing.

I'm going to adore the reekies. I'll douse myself with the after-shave lotion. I'll wear the tie clasp at least once. I'll certainly use the golf balls.

This is strictly dream stuff. But I'd like Father's Day to be a sort of New Year's event. I love the presents you're all going to buy (out of your own allowances, I hope) but if I had my way, you'd shower me with lists of resolutions—to be kept (the resolutions, for I'll put the lists in my safe deposit box) for a solid year.

I'm starting with some suggested resolutions for your mother, kids, but I'm going to give her a going over first only because she's joint head of the house and it's more polite that way—the way you always serve the guest of honor first.

Not to look my gift horses in the mouth, some things like the following would make every day Father's Day:

1. Razor blades, if used to rip hems, cut linoleum or sharpen pencils, will not be replaced in the razor.

2. My new sweater should remain my exclusive property. But if it is borrowed, it will not be left in the school locker for more than overnight.

3. All and any damage to the automobile, including ripped fenders, will be reported to me, and not quietly repaired with funds saved from the food budget (that month of meat-loaf last winter didn't fool anybody).

4. If Nancy insists on sitting with the neighbors' children, the neighborhood parents (and not me) be required to escort her home.

5. Playing of Be-bop records will be limited to two hours daily, preferably during daylight hours, with no repeats under a half-hour apart.

6. The bathroom shower rack will be reserved at all times for the shower curtain, not female unmentionables and silk stockings.

7. My old gabardine golf pants will not be sent to the cleaner's without consulting me, nor will they be locked in a trunk in the attic. The same applies to my old woolen bathrobe which has been a good friend all through my married life.

8. The lawn mower will be

Twelve Girls Are Guests At Party

Miss Marlene Mathews entertained a group of her friends at her home Tuesday evening to a "Come As You Are Party."

Games and contests furnished entertainment during the evening. In two clever contests prizes were awarded to Patty Boso and Ruth Ann Brookover.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Lillian Wing and Miss Beverly Carman.

Guests included Faye Ann Sagar, Nancy Kimmey, Mary McDonald, Jean Ann Boylan, Marilyn Cunningham, Sally Lewis, Emily Schlue, Shirley Reigel, Becky Waters, Patty Boso, Ruth Ann Brookover and Beverly Carman.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Franklin returned Thursday from Norman, Oklahoma, where they have been for the past few days, to the home of Mrs. Franklin's mother, Mrs. Clarence Craig. Mr. Franklin has been named vice president of the University of Oklahoma, at Norman and will assume his duties September 1.

Here's To the Ladies!

Most Horrible Words in English Language
To Women Are 'Housewife' and 'Career Girl'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK—The most horrible words in the English language are "housewife" and "career girl."

Almost all adult women are inevitably one or the other and to a woman we find ourselves flinching when we're accused of being one or the other. It's the words, not the jobs we do, that bother us.

There are good reasons for these reactions. They are the conditioned reflexes Pavlov encountered when he trained hungry dogs to drool.

Housewives have been the victims of an open season since before the war. Since the end of hostilities — when the emergent need for Rosie the Riveter went glimmering—they've widened the season to include the ladies who toil for a stipend in the market place.

It's gotten so that the mere words evoke pretty dreadful pictures—pictures which have been drawn and redrawn by radio, the movies, the magazines and—here

Memphis Queen For All Occasions

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—This is really the city for royalty—the beauty contest type of blue bloods.

If there's any place that chooses more "queens" it hasn't been heard from.

"Maid of Cotton, Cotton Carnival Queen, Miss City Beautiful, Miss Dixie Belle, Miss Fire Prevention (or just 'Miss Flame Girl' if you're second best) and Delta Bowl Queen" are some.

There's "Miss Navy" for the naval base nearby and "Miss Cinderella"—one of the many "Misses" and "Princesses" connected with the annual carnival.

Beall Street—the famous Negro thoroughfare—has its "Spirit of Cotton" queen and a "Blues Bowl Queen," too.

The churches are even getting into the act. Bellevue Baptist now names a queen annually.

More are on the way. When "Miss Memphis"—Barbara Jo Walker—became "Miss America" in 1947, that accomplishment seemed to have inspired hundreds of hopefuls. The "Miss Memphis" event is expecting more entries than ever this year.

Not that competition in past years hasn't been tough. Miss Walker lost out in both the "Dixie Belle" and "Maid of Cotton" contests before becoming "Miss America."

Some think the thing's getting out of hand but the enthusiastic sponsors are likely to sound off with something like this:

"Cleopatra might have had the Nile river situation sewed up but then she never docked at Memphis on the Mississippi."

particularly — psychologists and psychiatrists hoping to pick up a fast dollar with a best seller.

The housewife, if one takes a composite of impressions, is a lazy, shiftless, ineffective dope who not only shirks her housework and brings up the children badly, but gives her husband a tough time, too. She doesn't do anything but play bridge, attend movies and complain about how she's overworked. Once in awhile she's a brisk, efficient type concerned entirely with clothes and community organizations of which she is inevitably president.

Now then, the career girl. She's cold, so wrapped up in herself and her ambition that she wouldn't consider taking on a family. By her very existence she deprives men of needed jobs. She's a very bad cookie, indeed and the more money she's paid, the worse she is.

I don't believe either one of these indictments. Certainly, there are some prime examples of either type the experts can hold up to the light. But most women, whether they are raising families or arranging the bosses' golf dates, are run-of-the-mine human beings. And most of the working girls would swap in their jobs anyday in exchange for a broad pair of shoulders.

All the housewives I know keep pretty neat houses, their husbands look happy and healthy and they are concerned with Junior's teeth and the price of top round.

I think the whole thing is a figment of words. If we could evolve a new set of tags for ladies at home and women at work everyone would be happier. I don't think, however, that "home maker" and "business woman" are any improvements on the current ill-starred ones.

(Editor's Note: Miss Lowry not only has a career but runs a household.)

Fancy Handicraft From South Seas

HONOLULU—The sophisticated South Sea islanders of today are turning out handicrafts that look as if they might have come from Fifth avenue.

"If we want anything primitive we have to make it ourselves," complained one imported. "Pacific natives are up on all the new trends—including the one toward high prices."

One Honolulu trader penetrated the remote Fiji islands not long ago, taking along his own jewelry designs. With the samples to go by, islanders now fashion sleek, modernistic watch bands and brooches of tortoise shell.

Lathe-turned mahogany bowls from the Society islands are in Waikiki beach shops alongside "antique" wood carvings of pagan gods. Delicate shell necklaces from the Holiday islands complement the "new look" gowns at resort hotels in Hawaii. Table mats and handbags woven from Hawaiian hala tree fibre could appropriately be tagged with "made in California" labels.

Foreign Aid Appropriations Caught in Congress Battle

BY CLARENCE J. BROWN

Whether Congress can adjourn on June 19, as originally planned, or will have to return for a short period after the national political conventions have been held will depend entirely upon whether the Senate can complete consideration of the "must" bills now on its calendar. Most of last week Senate sessions were held late into the night, while in the House eight and ten hour sessions were held each day.

Foreign Aid Row

A real battle has developed in the Senate over the proposal to restore all of the reductions made by the House in the appropriations for foreign aid under the so-called Marshall Plan. Senator Vandenberg is leading the fight in behalf of the full appropriations making the argument that because the Congress voted to authorize a larger appropriation for a 12 month period, every dollar so authorized should be appropriated. Of course, the facts are that an authorization and an appropriation are two different things. An authorization fixes the top limit on the amount which can be appropriated for the purposes outlined in a bill, while the appropriations committee has the responsibility not to supply any funds authorized unless such appropriation is first fully justified. The House seems to be in the best position to win the ECA appropriation dispute—for unless both Houses agree on the total amount of money to be appropriated—no money whatsoever is appropriated.

Oleomargarine Tax

There is a strong likelihood that the bill to repeal federal taxes on oleomargarine, which passed the House some time ago, may not receive Senate consideration or be finally enacted before adjournment, if the June 19 dead line is met. The Senate committee is insisting that the oleomargarine tax repeal measures carry a provision that oleo be properly labeled as such, and the restaurants serving oleo advise their patrons of that fact, so it can not be sold or used as butter.

Housing Showdown

As this column is being written the House is preparing for a showdown battle over the question of public housing. The Senate, some time ago, in extending the federal housing act, added a provision for the spending of five hundred million dollars a year on public housing to be rented cheaply to low-income groups. The real estate and construction interests of the country are bitterly opposed to the legislation.

Reciprocal Trade

The Senate is expected to pass and send to the White House this week a bill previously approved by the House to extend the reciprocal trade agreements act for but one year, instead of three as requested by the administration. The measure will give the Tariff Commission greater authority and will restrict presidential powers in the making of reciprocal trade agreements.

Republican Convention

The Republican national convention opens in Philadelphia next Monday. Ohio will be represented by a delegation of 53, to be headed by Senator John W. Bricker as chairman. Forty-four of these delegates are pledged to the candidacy of Senator Robert A.

Taft and nine to former governor of Minnesota, Harold E. Stassen, but it is expected that many of the Stassen delegates will finally support the Ohio Senator. Your humble servant and representative in Congress, who will act as floor manager for the Taft forces in the convention, has been chosen by the Ohio delegation to serve another four year term as Republican national committeeman for Ohio.

President's Trip

President Truman, who is supposed to be on a non-political tour of the West at the taxpayer's expense, is receiving a great deal of criticism from the press and Republican leaders for his very partisan speeches. His attack last week on the Congress was promptly answered on the floor of the House and Senate. It seems as if the presidential campaign of 1948 is already well under way.

TRANSATLANTIC MAIL COURTSHIP

CROP Meeting To Be Friday At Circleville

Fayette Countians To Get Details of Overseas Aid Plan

Church and farm organization leaders in this and four neighboring counties will meet Friday to organize as part of a state-wide overseas relief drive which is to culminate with the assembling of an Ohio food train late in July. The train will be sponsored by the Christian Rural Overseas program, (CROP).

The meeting will be held in the Circleville High School building, at 1:30 P. M., with several speakers scheduled to appear, including Frank Farnsworth, director of agriculture for the state of Ohio; and D. W. Galehouse, assistant state director of overseas relief.

The purpose of the meeting will be to acquaint the people of this area with the CROP program which handles gifts in kind from America's rural folks for shipment to the needy overseas.

The activities of CROP are national in scope, and it is expected that at the beginning of the harvest season 100,000 volunteers will be taking pledges from farmers in the wheat belt alone. CROP is sponsored by Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service, and Lutheran World Relief.

Principal commodities expected to be solicited in Ohio are wheat and dairy products.

Community Calendar Has Many Open Dates

If the Community Calendar can be considered a measuring stick, Washington C. H.'s social swirl will be at a lull this summer.

The only dates filled for the summer months are Johnny Godfrey's Dance Recital for June 16 and 17, The Lioness Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, and the YBM have filled in their meeting dates for the remainder of the year.

A few fall meetings have been called in to the Chamber of Commerce to be put on the calendar. The Country Club dinner to launch the Community Concert drive is slated for September 13. The Cecilia Club plans its 60th anniversary dinner for September 8. Fall and winter meetings for the PTA occupy the only other dates filled in.

"We do not feel the calendar is being used to its fullest advantage," said Fred Rost, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. "However, some groups have been very conscientious about using it and the calendar has proved its worth on several occasions."

Rost also said the calendar would continue as long as it was sufficiently used and wanted by the organizations.

Monument Now Is 100 Years Old

CAPSTONE ADDED—Not until December, 1884, 36 years after cornerstone was laid, was the Washington monument completed.

20 Fayette County Students To Participate in Centennial

On Independence Day 100 years ago high government officials and other patriotic Americans laid the cornerstone for the Washington monument.

If you had visited the national capital on that July 4, you would have beheld a colorful and memorable ceremony. The day was beautiful, following a rain that laid the dust.

There was, wrote an observer, "a delicious freshness in the air." President James K. Polk was present, as were the vice president, members of the cabinet, senators and representatives, justices of the Supreme Court, foreign diplomats and civic officials of Washington, Georgetown and Alexandria. An estimated 20,000 persons saw the military parade and cornerstone laying ceremony.

Now, a century later, another ceremony is to be held. It is the Washington Monument Centennial.

And a score or more of students from Fayette County and its county seat, Washington C. H., will participate in the program.

No less than the monument itself, Washington C. H. and its surrounding area are living memorials to the first president.

The land was settled by men who fought in the Revolutionary War under him. The city itself was named for him. Indeed, it was one of seven cities in the entire nation whose instruments of government specified they were named for General Washington.

For the 21 students from the county who will make the trip, the departure from Greenfield aboard the National Limited will be on Friday evening, July 2—just two weeks away. They will return July 6.

There will be tours of the capitol and government buildings in store on arrival in the capital city. A battleship will take them on a trip down the Potomac. There will be a band concert by the banks of the Tidal Basin. News-reel cameras will be in hand.

And the man in the White House President Harry S. Truman, will make a personal address to the students.

All arrangements are being made by the Young Business Men's committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and money for 15 of the youngsters was raised by members of the YBM. Only a few dollars more in the treasury will allow a 16th to make the trip.

Five others are going by designation or by paying their own way.

On the July 4 celebration thought will turn back the pages of history to the memorable Independence Day of 1848.

What would it have been like? You would have seen a live American eagle perched atop a temporary arch near the monument site. The eagle, then 40 years old, has gained fame a few years earlier, when it had surmounted an arch in Alexandria to welcome Marquis de Lafayette.

This living American eagle, wrote an observer, "with its dark plumage, piercing eye and snowy head and tail . . . seemed to look with anxious gaze on the unwonted spectacle below."

Robert C. Winthrop, Massachusetts, speaker of the House of Representatives, delivered the oration, after that honor had been declined by ex-President John Quincy Adams and Senator Daniel Webster. Winthrop was to have the honor 37 years later, on February 21, 1885, of delivering the oration dedicating the completed Washington monument.

12(P)ton Cornerstone—Cornerstone of this 555-foot marble shaft is a 24,500-pound block of marble quarried near Baltimore and presented to the Washington National Monument society by Thomas Symington, Baltimore.

Railroads had carried the cornerstone free of charge to Washington Navy Yard. Workmen from the Navy Yard and numerous Washington citizens helped move the stone to the monument site. This task had been "accomplished amidst much enthusiasm displayed in the streets."

THE MONUMENT—Tall obelisk towers 550 feet above Washington.

LAYING CORNERSTONE—An old drawing depicts ceremony. Photos are courtesy National Park Service, Public Roads Administration.

Matthew G. Emery had donated his time to cut and dress the cornerstone. Emery later became mayor, incidentally, to be elected by the people of this national capital that still has taxation without representation.

A marble firm cut a hole in the cornerstone for the placing of documents, maps, magazines, newspapers and letters that were to be sealed inside.

During the cornerstone-laying ceremony, the trowel which Washington had used in 1793 to lay the cornerstone of the Capitol was again employed.

Fireworks prepared by Navy Yard pyrotechnists were displayed that night. They were "witnessed" by an immense multitude, and "were admirable beyond description."

That fireworks display near the Washington monument site 100 years ago started a tradition, and every year on the night of July 4 tens of thousands of people gather to watch one of the finest fireworks displays in the nation.

The tall and inspiring Washington monument that you see today has a history far older than the cornerstone laying a century ago.

On Aug. 7, 1783, the Continental Congress, with 10 states present, resolved unanimously: "That an equestrian statue of General Washington be erected at the place where the residence of Congress shall be established in honor of George Washington, the illustrious commander-in-chief of the Armies of the United States of America, during the war which vindicated and secured their liberty, sovereignty and independence."

Shortly before Christmas in 1799, a few days after Washington's death, Congress resolved: "That a marble monument be erected by the United States at the city of Washington, and that the family of General Washington be requested to permit his body to be deposited under it, and that the monument be so designated as to commemorate the great events of his military and political life."

Congress stalled. Congress even then had already developed the art of stalling, however, and many years passed before anything was done to convert these high-sounding resolutions into action. Some amendments were made to the resolutions, but by 1833 Congress had done nothing except talk about a monument for George Washington.

Finally in 1833 some Washington citizens formed a voluntary organization for the purpose of "erecting a great national monument to the memory of Washington at the seat of the federal government." Contributions were limited to one dollar, in hope that everybody would contribute. Everybody didn't.

A depression in 1837 nearly stopped the dribble. In 1845 the Monument society lifted the dollar limitation. An intensified campaign during the next two years raised the total fund to about $87,000, so in 1848 they decided they could start the monument. Congress had still done nothing but grant some land.

Following the cornerstone laying, work continued on the monument until 1855. The society spent about $230,000 and the marble shaft had reached a height of 152 feet. States, municipalities, organizations and even foreign countries had been invited to contribute stone for the interior walls. You find 188 of these memorial stones today.

Added Excitement

One night in March, 1854, masked men representing the upstart Know-Nothing party, attacked a watchman at the monument and stole the marble block which the pope had sent from the

Washington C. H. Record-Herald

The Record-Herald Thursday, June 17, 1948 11

Temple of Concord in Rome.

Nearly a year later, members of this same political group seized records of the Washington National Monument society. This act was committed the day before Congress was to have appropriated $200,000 toward completion of the monument, but it caused Congress to table the proposed resolution.

More years passed. The Civil war was fought, followed by a trying reconstruction period. Twenty-one years after work had stopped on the Washington monument a wave of patriotism stirred the country as the centenary of the Declaration of Independence was celebrated in 1876. Congress came through with $200,000—just 93 years after the Continental Congress had resolved that a suitable structure should honor Washington.

In January, 1877, the monument was decided to the government. Work resumed in 1880. Workmen laid the 3,300-pound capstone on Dec. 6, 1884, and the monument was dedicated the following Feb. 21.

Since it was opened to the public in 1888, more than 21 million persons have ascended its lofty shaft. It cost nearly $1,200,000, and in 1934 and 1935 it underwent repair and cleaning that cost more than $88,000.

The Washington monument is probably the most photographed monument in the world.

Grand Jury Is Probing Alleged 'Milk Trust'

CINCINNATI, June 17—(P)—Records subpoenaed from milk companies, a store and a bottle exchange were placed yesterday before a federal grand jury investigating an alleged "milk trust" in southwestern Ohio. Federal attorneys said the jury would hear its first witness next week.

Linotypes To 'Star' Before Public Gaze

The "star of the show" at the Record-Herald open house June 28 will be six clattering, complicated machines in the composing room.

Those machines are the Linotypes, which set the type from which the newspaper is printed.

Time was—not so many years ago—that compositors bent over type cases day after day, hand-setting each individual letter of type into a small tray called a "stick."

Many thousands of these individual letters made up a newspaper page—and, due to the limited capacity of the compositors, restricted the size of even the greatest big city newspapers to four or six pages daily.

During the middle of the last century, a man named Ottomar Mergenthaler watched these printers as they had since the Chinese invented movable type 800 years previously.

Ottomar Mergenthaler wondered:

"Can I develop a machine to set an entire line of type in one operation?"

Dream Becomes Reality

His dreams turned to reality with the invention of a machine to set a "line of type"—the Linotype. It was put into operation in 1886.

The Linotype machine is a complicated mechanism, yet its basic operation is fairly simple:

An operator punches at a keyboard like that of a typewriter; individual brass moulds, each bearing the imprint of a separate letter, fall into line and are hoisted into a position where molten metal is squirted into them; the metal hardens and is ejected as a line of type; and the moulds are returned to their proper places above the keyboard.

Hour by hour, day by day the six Record-Herald typesetting machines transform typewritten manuscripts, telling of news in the world and in Fayette County into silvery lines of hot type.

Type Locked in Forms

This type is locked into page forms, or frames, and a full-page mould of the page is made. Semi-cylindrical plates are prepared and put on the press for actual printing of the paper.

Of course, the Linotypes will be the "stars" in the composing room—but there are many other mechanical wonders to be seen which have a part in preparing daily editions of Fayette County's daily newspaper.

The newspaper staff will be on hand to explain the Linotypes and other mechanism in the plant to all visitors.

Among improvements in the Record-Herald plant during the recent remodeling were the installation of a new Model 29 Linotype, a new Hammond Glider trim-e-saw, an Elrod strip casting machine (which makes borders and the lines seen between columns in the paper), and many new styles of type mats, or moulds, for the Linotype and its companion machine for setting headlines and large advertising type, the Ludlow Typograph.

Many More Additions

In the composing room there are many new benches and storage cabinets and other smaller items too numerous to mention.

But by far the "star" of the composing room show in the Record-Herald on open house night will be the six Linotype machines. Each visitor, incidentally, will see his name set in type on these machines.

In addition, there will be refreshments for all in the upstairs clubrooms. The Record-Herald invites its friends to attend the open house, so—

Meat Supply Threat Seen

COLUMBUS, June 17—(AP)—The United States may become a grain-eating nation unless livestock producers eliminate animal disease, Dean Walter Krill of Ohio State University's college of veterinary medicine said today.

He warned of a "distinct possibility" that future generations may be denied an ample supply of meat.

Dr. Krill said that 2,000,000 of 5,000,000 pigs produced annually in Ohio never reach the market.

Two-thirds of this loss, totaling $20,000,000, could be prevented, he said, by better feeding and general management.

Recent advances in this field will be outlined tomorrow at Ohio State University's 17th annual conference for veterinarians.

In 35 years, the Rockefeller Foundation has spent more than $400,000,000 in virtually every country of the world.

Drys in Ohio Get Set Back

COLUMBUS, June 17—(AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court today refused to order Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel to print petition forms to enable the prohibition party to qualify for the presidential election in Ohio next November.

Frank McCartney of Columbus had asked for a writ on behalf of the party to compel the secretary of state to supply petition forms so that the party could vote for its nominees for president and vice-president.

The supreme court said there was no mandatory duty on the part of the secretary of state to supply the forms.

The decision, however, would leave the way open for the party to qualify its own nominees by preparing its own petitions and submitting them to the secretary of state.

Hummel would have the right to reject the petitions just as he did in the case of the Ohio Wallace for president committee if he saw fit.

'Mad Dog Killers' Get Prison Terms

CHICAGO, June 17—(AP)—Two youths, described as "mad dog killers" after they and a third man were accused by police of going on a shooting spree last December and slaying three men, were sentenced last night to 199 years in prison.

Judge Daniel A. Roberts imposed the sentences recommended by a Criminal Court jury which convicted the youths, James Morelli, 20, and Lowell Fentress, 19, of murder in the gangland slaying of John Kuesis, 36-year-old garage owner.

11,000,000 Jews Marked for Death In Gas Chambers, Records Reveal

By TOM REEDY.

NUERNBERG, Germany. — (AP)—Hitler accomplished only half his goal in his plan to destroy the Jews. Documents in war crimes trials here disclosed there was a master plan to gas 11,000,000.

A cold, impersonal discussion of the "final solution of the Jewish question" took place at a conference January 20, 1942 in Berlin.

A record of the conference was introduced in the trial of the Nazi ministers.

Prosecutor Robert M. W. Kempner claimed the document put full blame for the Jewish annihilation on the ministers, including the foreign office, instead of the usual Himmler-Bormann scapegoats.

Attending the conference were Stuckart of the interior ministry; Freisler, of justice; Luther of the foreign office; Meyer and Leibbrandt of the occupied east and Neumann of the "four-year plan."

A chart was laid down listing

11,000,000 Jews, even including those in the British Isles. At that time the Nazi hierarchy apparently had not given up hope of defeating and occupying Great Britain.

Minutes of the meeting said: "Under proper direction the Jews should be brought to the east in a suitable way for use as labor. In big labor gangs, those capable of work are to be employed in road building in which task undoubtedly a great part will fall out through natural diminution."

"The remnant that finally is able to survive all this must be given treatment accordingly, since these people are to be regarded as the German cell of a new Jewish development should they be allowed to go free."

"See the experience of history on this."

The plan succeeded in the extermination of upwards of 6,000,000. The cold-blooded schedule, according to the documents, listed these groups of Jews for "final solution."

Germany, 131,000; Austria, 43,700; Poland and other occupied eastern territories, 2,704,000; Bialystok, 400,000; Czechoslovakia, 74,200; Baltic states, 37,500; Belgium, 43,000; Denmark, 5,600; France, 885,000; Greece, 69,600; Holland, 160,800; Norway, 1,300; Bulgaria, 48,000; England, 350,000; Finland, 2,300; Ireland, 4,000; Italy, Sardinia and Albania, 58,200; Croatia, 40,000; Portugal, 3,000; Romania, 342,000; Sweden, 3,000; Switzerland, 18,000; Serbia, 10,000; Slovakia, 88,000; Spain, 6,000; Turkey, 55,500; Hungary, 742,800; Soviet Russia, 5,000,000; Ukraine, 2,994,684.

The late Gestapo chief Reinhard Heydrich opened the meeting by announcing he had been appointed by Hermann Goering to head up "the preparation of the final solution."

Even half-Jews were included in the extermination program. Quarter-Jews were to be given the choice of sterilization or death. The minutes of the meeting recorded this as a "voluntary" phase of the plan.

The conference came about, it was explained, because mere evacuation failed to remove the Jews from "reich territory." Those who got away in the earlier days bought their way out.

Jewish financial organizations abroad, mostly in the U. S., contributed $9,500,000 to obtain foreign exchange for the hapless up to October 30, 1941, the conference was told.

Life Nearing Normal Thanks to Operation

CANTON, June 17—(AP)—Betty Lee Woolridge, the 21-year-old Canton girl who was saved by a history-making heart operation from being a bedridden invalid, now is able to do light housework, take rides in the country and even go to an occasional movie.

Four months ago Dr. Horace surgery at the University of South Carolina Medical College, performed the unusual operation. At a Charleston, S. C., hospital he cut away scar tissue which clogged a heart valve as an aftermath of rheumatic fever.

Until then Betty had been confined for months to her bed and her chances of recovery were rated slight.

Numerous well-wishers and rheumatic fever victims write to her and she personally answers every letter from a heart-disease patient. Some she refers to Dr. Smithy. But she says:

"I won't tell anyone to go through an operation like mine. I couldn't stand it if someone followed my advice and died."

Fire Sweeps Building Of German University

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 17—(AP)—A German was killed today in a fire which swept a new building of famed Heidelberg University about an hour after students marched through the city protesting that food rations were low.

NAVY and Coast Guard teamwork saved life of 22-month-old Carolyn Smith, daughter of a Navy man on the Farallone Islands, 30 miles off Golden Gate. The child was run over by a heavy pushcart used in unloading supplies. So a doctor from the carrier Boxer was put ashore by a Coast Guard cutter, then a helicopter was sent from the mainland to the Farallones to bring the child to San Francisco. Her mother is shown with her at St. Luke's hospital. (International)

Increased Pay Due Pensioners On October 1

About $5 per Month;
Boost in County May
Reach $54,000 Yearly

Fayette County's 905 old age pensioners today could look forward to possible increase of about $5 in their monthly checks on October 1.

But before the increases can go into effect, some changes in the state law may have to be made.

Mrs. Martine J. Straley, manager of the Washington C. H. office of the Division of Aid for the Aged, said "nothing official" on the increase had been received here.

However, officials of the State Welfare Department in Columbus said the state may get an additional $7,200,000 a year from the federal government for needy aged people.

The increase in Fayette County would amount to about $54,300, according to unofficial estimates. The figures are calculated on the basis of an estimated $5 increase and the total of 905 pensioners on the rolls as of June 1.

The boost in benefits came from congressional action in amending the social security law to boost federal benefits for old age pensioners.

According to the Associated Press, the state legislature must amend the present state law to authorize increases in maximum benefits for the aged. The maximum now is $50 a month.

Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood conferred with Karl R. Babb, chief of the State Division of Aid for the Aged, on the distribution of new federal funds. Sherwood said he would contact the federal social security regional board in Cleveland to find out the provisions of the new law.

He said he understood it became effective Oct. 1, but he needed clarification on this and other points. He said a study also would be needed for Ohio to take

Of all the names that "Honor" claims

"Father's" stands supreme:
Created in God's image fair
God's highest, holy dream.

With glory and high honor crown-

He holds creation's throne—
Dominion over all God's works
And ruler of the home.

The Christian home a kingdom is
An empire most sublime:
Here father rules and makes the laws

And reigns by right divine.

God set him on this holy throne
Placed scepter in his hand,
And counts on him to rule his house
In love; respect demand.

As sacred guardian of the home
His faithful watch maintains:
He holds his life a sacred trust
For loved ones though he's slain.

Both food and raiment he provides
As well as sheltering home:
He builds a citadel of love
Beneath protecting dome.

He bears upon his heart "High Hopes"

He labors not in vain,
He plans for all life's very best
E'en life's eternal gain.

Woman Creates an Orchid With Tools in a Few Hours

FAYETTSVILLE, Ark.,—(AP)—Gilbert can create one in a few hours with a pair of scissors and a piece of wood fiber. Even florists are fooled by her product.

It's a hobby with Mrs. Gilbert, who lives near here. She says her only aim is to make other people happy with her flowers. In 1939 Mrs. Gilbert was riding with a friend and noticed an illustrated orchid on a billboard sign. The Arkansan had never seen a live orchid, but was struck by the beauty of the flower on the sign.

Mrs. Gilbert rushed home and started to work with glue and scissors to recapture the billboard image in her mind. Later, when she first saw a real orchid, she was disappointed with her synthetic creation. This spurred her to work harder and achieve an almost life-like reproduction. Florists say it is difficult to tell, even by touch, that Mrs. Gilbert's orchids are artificial. One woman wore a Gilbert orchid on a plane trip and politely declined when the pilot asked if she wanted it put on ice. The passengers were amazed when the "flower" didn't wilt with the trip. A California bride, who received a Gilbert orchid as a gift, keeps her friends wondering at her husband's extravagance.

More Money Received From Xenia Meters

It costs motorists $1 each when they are ticketed for overparking in the metered area of Xenia, and if the violators ignore notices sent to them, the cost is $5.20 each.

During the last month, when the 300 parking meters were kept in order and the law enforced, the total receipts for the month reached over $3,300. It was $1,900 for April, before officials started doing something about the matter of overparking, and the court started assessing fines.

Before May the police were not the enforcing agents, and since police have taken over, they test meters to make certain that the meters are working, then issue the ticket.

If meters are not working motorists are asked to leave a note on their windshield.

Summer Plays To Begin at Yellow Springs

YELLOW SPRINGS, June 17—The 13th successive season of summer plays by the Yellow Springs Area Theater, bringing 50 performances to the stage of the old opera house between June 23 and Aug. 29 this year, opens Wednesday with John Van Druten's comedy, "The Voice of the Turtle."

Ten plays will be offered during the 10-week season, each show running five nights, Wednesday through Sunday weekly. Curtain time is 8:30 P. M.

A cast of three takes part in the Van Druten opener, which comes to the Area Theater boards fresh from a smash-hit run of 1,310 performances on Broadway and in the wake of the recent popular movie version.

Director for the season's first two shows is Arthur Lithgow, who has cast Arthur Lewis, and Suzanne Sims in the stellar roles.

Returning to the Area Theater after a winter of professional acting in the East is Allyn Moss.

The famous comedy tells the warm, gay story of an army sergeant's wartime week end in New York, after he is stranded by one actress in the apartment of another.

"Night Must Fall," a murder mystery by Emylin Williams, author of "The Corn Is Green," will be next on the summer schedule. Remaining plays of the season are "Dream Girl," "Thunder Rock," "The Importance of Being Earnest," "I Weep For You," "Dark of the Moon," "Charley's Aunt," "Hear Ye!" and "The Comedy of Errors."

Opening nights for two of these plays, "I Weep For You" by Earle Reynolds and "Hear Ye!" by Ralph Vines, Dayton newspaperman, will be their world premieres.

Reservations for the Yellow Springs plays may be made by writing the Area Theater.

Season tickets are on sale through June 23.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this: Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Assistance Ready to All Service Men Needing It

Applicants having problems in connection with their claims for the Ohio World War II compensation, were advised Thursday, to seek the assistance of local county bonus representatives and full time service offices.

In this county Bernard Witherspoon, CVSO, is the man to see, and his office is in Memorial Hall building, second floor.

Whom to see was suggested by Chester W. Goble, director of World War II compensation fund, who said most of the county relief commissions and major veterans' organizations are now prepared to handle many of the questions now being received by mail and telephone at bonus headquarters.

"County Soldiers Relief Commissions employ full-time service officers in 78 Ohio counties and bonus representatives in 10 others. These persons are well qualified to assist with the proper

B&O To Expand Diesel Fleet By 160 Engines

None Are Scheduled For Operation In Fayette County

More communities along the far-flung lines of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad can expect the honking air horns of Diesel engines to replace the high-pitched blasts of steam whistles in the not-too-distant future.

The B. & O. president, Roy B. White, announced in New York that the railway system expects delivery of 160 new Diesel-electric engines, many similar to those now operating through Fayette County.

White's announcement followed a regular board of directors meeting of the railroad.

The new units will include 100 switching engines for yard use, 40 to be sent to Cincinnati, 25 each to Youngstown and Pittsburgh and the remaining 10 to Baltimore, where 43 Diesel switchers are already in use.

None For Use Here
Sixty Diesel locomotives will be added to the present fleet of 24 now in freight service, but none of them will be used on the runs through Washington C. H.

James F. Witherspoon, B. & O. agent in Washington C. H., said there have been six Diesel runs operating through the city daily, all of them on freight runs. They are used to haul trains from Cincinnati to Newark.

All four passenger trains operating daily through the city are hauled by steam locomotives.

The addition of the new Diesels to the B. & O. fleet will approximately double its size. This will constitute nearly 15 percent of the railway's motive power.

Others Stick to Steam
Both other railroads operating through Fayette County—the Pennsylvania and the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton—have continued use of steam locomotives for all trains.

The demand for new Diesel locomotives has become so great that the American Locomotive Company in Schenectady, N. Y., has completely converted its facilities to Diesels.

The last steam locomotive from the century-old plant chugged away Wednesday, and all hands turned to production of the newer equipment.

Vice President P. T. Egbert said the change "is a matter of demand."

According to The Associated Press, American Locomotive invested $20,000,000 to convert its facilities and expects the 1948 Diesel output to top last year's by 50 percent.

The last steam engine went to Cleveland for use on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad.

Heart Clinic Here Friday
A reminder that the Heart Clinic will begin promptly at 10 A. M. Friday, was issued by Dr. Gordon S. Savage, health commissioner.

Dr. Robert A. Lyon and assistants from Children's Hospital in Cincinnati will be in charge.

This is the first children's heart and rheumatic fever clinic to be held in Fayette County.

Appointments are necessary because of the time element, Dr. Savage said. These can be made by telephoning the Fayette County Health Department.

More of Same for Dad

Neckties Still Top Gift List For Father's Day, Clerks Say

Washington C. H. dads can expect more gifts next Sunday but the gifts will be more of the same kind.

Merchants here have been selling Father's Day gifts for 33 years and a recent survey of men's clothing and jewelry stores indicates 1948 sales have been the highest so far.

And what has been the most popular single item? Neckties! The five men's clothing stores and departments here agree that sport shirts run a close second to ties with dress pants also a popular item.

According to the jewelry stores, watches are the best sellers with billfolds, tie sets, key chains, watch bands, fountain pens and cigarette lighters also in the running.

To date, sales have shown an increase over past years and the last-minute rush is expected to show an even greater increase. One theory advanced for higher sales is more high pressure advertising and greater commercializing of Father's Day.

A woman is responsible for commemorating Dad, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd originated the idea in 1910 in Spokane, Washington. It wasn't until 1936 that the Father's Day Committee was formed to get behind the movement. Various Fathers of the Year have been selected by the committee. Some of these have been General Douglas MacArthur, General D. Eisenhower, Lieutenant General Mark W. Clark, President Harry S. Truman and columnist Drew Pearson.

Demolition Ended By Superstition

PRAGUE —(P)—On wall stands in the middle of a razed area in Chomutov, 66 miles west of Prague—a monument to superstition. The town council planned to demolish a group of buildings, many of them erected in the 16th and 17th centuries.

Most of the workmen were Slovaks and gypsies, both loaded down with centuries of superstition. When they came to the mysterious wall, a stone fell from the top and broke a workman's leg. Another workman uncovered a stone on which was carved the relief of a woman's face. A moment later another stone, with a carving of a dog's head on it, was found. Then a rumor swept through the labor gang that a tube containing an ancient letter had been found which recorded that on that spot a nun had been buried alive with her pet dog. Anyone who disturbed the spot of the grave would be punished by death—the rumor ran, and work stopped. In vain, foremen pointed out that back in the Middle Ages builders put their signature stones into walls and that these mysterious carvings were just that. No one could produce the rumored letter. The town councilors were still looking for workmen to finish the demolition.

Preview of New Fords Given Newsmen Here

By JACK EISEN

Two decades ago, the late Henry Ford startled the nation's motoring public.

He announced he had forsaken the traditional Model T in favor of the gleaming Model A. But until a given date, the appearance of the new car was kept a deep, dark secret.

When it was unveiled, the Model A was a big surprise. The 1949 Ford, too, is going to be a surprise.

The public has seen the new car in photographs. But those photographs cannot do it justice. To see is to believe, and Fayette Countians will have a chance to see the new car Friday in the Carroll Halliday showrooms.

A group of Record-Herald staff members—Editor Howard Harper, Advertising Manager Frank Ellis, and admen James Hutton, Robert Dempsey and Earl McCoy, and the writer of this "review"—had a sneak preview of the new car.

Halliday has four of the sleek, low-slung 1949 models in the "catacombs" of his garage. By a very devious route, the small room was reached where the cars are stored.

One notices quickly the differences between the 49er and the older cars.

Three can sit in the front seat with ease, since the seat is eight inches wider than the '48 model. And the back seat is even wider.

The driver of a model A or T—or even a later V-8 would become puzzled at first glance at the dashboard (or should it be called the instrument panel?) The new dash panel has a centralized group of instruments around the speedometer, and numerous buttons control the lights, dash lights, flow of warm and cool air through the ventilators and many other gadgets.

Some of the cars—the custom line—come with all these gadgets complete. The regular Ford line does not have all the accessories.

Even the emergency brake is new and different. The brake is a handle to the driver's left; it locks in place when pulled. To release the brake, the driver turns the handle either to the right or to the left.

There's lots of trunk space and the spare tire is relocated so all the baggage doesn't have to be shifted in case that extra tire is needed.

Some changes in the engine have been made, largely in relocation of parts. The hood opens from the front.

Halliday pointed out that the springs are new this year. They are extra long and longitudinal and are complemented by air-plane-type shock absorbers.

And Halliday is happy, indeed. There are several more Fords in his very-near future.

Politics Enters Czech Schools

Students Register On Questionnaire

PRAGUE—(P)—If you want to go to college in Czechoslovakia you have to have the right political answers. Students registering after the political change in February which made the country Communist dominated, had to answer a questionnaire.

Here are five questions, among others, asked of students in one college of Prague University:

Were you organized in some political party in 1947? Did you take part actively in political life in 1947? Did you work for some newspaper or journal, etc., during 1947? Was your mind changed in any way by the political events of February this year? What was your opinion on the February events and on the situation that resulted thereafter? Make three or four statements on this subject.

The questions were framed by students action committees which governed the political thinking of students. In student elections before the February changes, conservative students, chiefly allied with the Czech National Socialist party, won most of the posts.

Japanese Churchmen Going to England

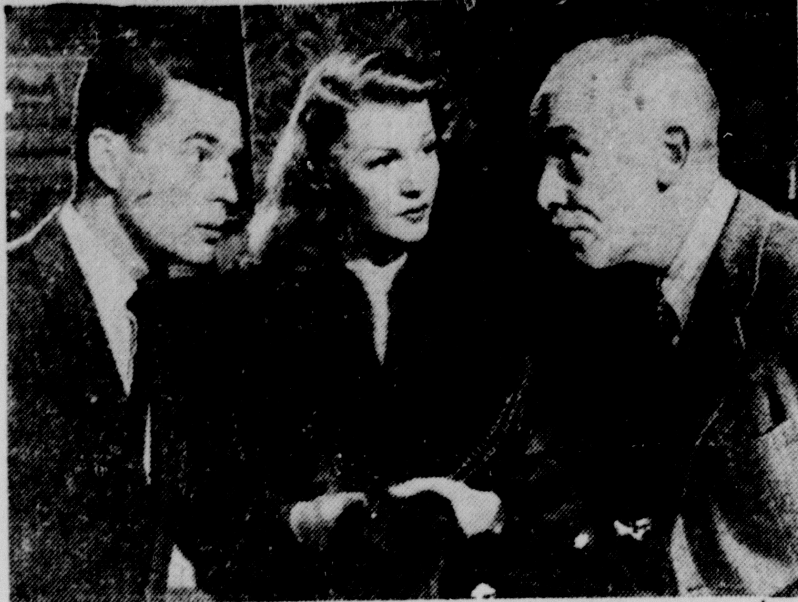

LONDON — (P)—Three Japanese bishops will be among the 323 delegates to the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops—the first since 1930—when it convenes in July. They are the first Japanese churchmen to be granted exit permits since the war. British occupation troops have contributed towards the cost of their journey.

The bishops are Yashiro, Yanagihara and Makita. They are invited by the Archbishop of Canterbury who will be their sponsor. Chinese, Maori, Singalese and African bishops also will attend the conference.

Czech Refugees Arrive

LONDON, June 17—(P)—Twenty-one Czechoslovak refugees, including women and children, arrived by plane at a Royal Air Force station in Kent today.

About 65 per cent of deaths attributed to hypertension involve the heart.

A romantic film story in technicolor, "Down to Earth," is coming to the State Theater Sunday. Larry Parks is in the starring role. On the same program will be a thriller, "The Corpse Came C. O. D.," starring George Brent and Joan Blondell.

Good Cheer Workers

Mrs. Stanley Fisher, with Mrs. J. O. Woodmansee as cohostess, welcomed members of the Good Cheer Workers Sunday School Class of the Methodist Church Tuesday evening for the regular June meeting. Mrs. Fisher, president, opened the meeting by reading a poem, "The Rose Still Grows Beyond the Wall."

Miss Gertrude Christy read Scripture verses, and Mrs. John Matthew had prepared and read a lovely tribute to the memory of Mrs. Donna Gaskins, a member recently taken by death.

Roll call was answered by a discussion of roses, and group singing of hymns, with Mrs. E. W. Elrod at the piano, were enjoyed.

Following routine business, Mrs. Woodmansee conducted a Bible quiz and Sue Sandra Runyan, of Fairfield, little niece of the hostess, pleased all with a recitation and song. Other guests were Mrs. F. F. Hubbell and daughter, Mona.

During the social hour, the hostesses served delectable refreshments.

Pirates Grab Lead-Tie By Victory over Giants

(By the Associated Press)

That second .400 mark, the goal that Ted Williams has set for himself, appears to be within striking distance, now that the splendid splinter has finally solved two of his biggest problems.

The mighty slugger of the Boston Red Sox, currently leading all major league batsmen with a cool .408, expressed doubt early this spring that he could top .350 because of two things—the "Boudreau Shift" and night baseball.

But the box scores show that Ted has hurdled these obstacles this season. In fact he overcame them so thoroughly that in addition to his pace-setting batting mark, he also is the No. 1 man in the American League in hits, runs, runs batted in and doubles. And he is second in home runs.

Ted had a perfect day at bat yesterday, four for four. Two doubles and a homer went to left field. The homer cleared the left field fence for his 13th circuit blow. The fourth was a single to right.

Feller Beaten Again

The blows came against Boudreau's league leading Indians and helped the Red Sox defeat Cleveland and Bob Feller, 7-4. It was Feller's seventh loss against five victories. He hasn't won a game since May 19.

The Detroit Tigers ran their winning streak to six straight games with a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in 11 innings. Young Art Houtteman, who has been losing some tough games for the Tigers, finally won a close one, outpitching Lefty Lou Brissie.

The 24-year-old Philadelphia rookie had a one-hit shutout through the first eight innings.

The victory moved the fourth place Tigers to within three games of the second place A's. They trail the third place New York Yankees by two.

The Yankees nipped the White Sox, 3-1, in Chicago to even the two-game series at one victory apiece. Allie Reynolds went the route for the first time since May 11. He allowed only seven hits in gaining his seventh victory.

Pirates Tied at Top

The Pittsburgh Pirates climbed into a tie with the Boston Braves for the National League lead when they trounced the New York

Giants, 11-5, while the Braves were beaten by the Cubs 8-5, in Boston.

Home runs by Johnny Hopp and Wally Westlake and four Giants errors, helped the Pirates.

Home runs by Ed Waikus and Andy Pafko and some good relief pitching by Emil Kish enabled the Cubs to gain their first victory over the Braves in eight games this season.

Two night games were played. The Brooklyn Dodgers edged the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, and the St. Louis Browns nosed out the Washington Senators, 6-5.

Bobby Adams, Reds second baseman, was injured in the fifth inning when Dodger Catcher Gil Hodges slid hard into him while breaking up a double play.

A scheduled night game between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Phillies in Philadelphia was postponed because of rain.

Pay-for-Play Golfers Gather at Toledo

TOLEDO, June 17—(P)—The 64 finest pay-for-play golfers in Ohio tee off at Sunningdale course tomorrow in the annual state public links tournament.

This year's meet is a match play affair, the first in tourney history. The 64 eligibles qualified in 11 district tournaments.

Three former champions are in the field: Val Chiaverini of Toledo, the defending champ; Barney Hunt of Columbus and Jay Krochmal of Toledo.

Chiaverini, who has won the last two tournaments, meets William R. Zimmerman of Dayton in his first match. They tee off first tomorrow—at 8 A. M. Krochmal plays George Zimmerman of Dayton and Hunt meets Harry Vellotta of Cleveland.

There will be two rounds of match play tomorrow, cutting the field to the "sweet sixteen." The finals are Sunday.

Previous tournaments have been 72-hole medal play affairs. This plan was abandoned this year because of the number of entries.

Mayor James Rhodes of Columbus, Ohio Public Links Golf Association president, announced first-round pairings yesterday.

Pairings include:

8:15 Robert Ensell, Steubenville and Bob Kay, Toledo.

8:20 Eddie Bohardt, Dayton and Walter Tochell, Steubenville.

8:40 Joe Patton, Steubenville, and Jimmy Adams, Akron.

9:15 Ray Gozdowski, Toledo, and M. Adams, Mansfield.

9:20 Mike Popp, Steubenville, and Tony Shuskey, Cleveland.

9:30 George Timko, Warren, and Andy Holmes, Toledo.

9:45 Edward Kosikowski, Steubenville, and John Winters, Columbus.

10:10 Joe Marks, Dayton, and B. Mathias, Mansfield.

75 Golfers Tee Off In Victory Tourney

CHICAGO, June 17—(P)—A field of 75 of golf's leading professionals and amateurs teed off at Midlothian Country Club today as the four-day sixth annual $15,000 Victory National Tournament opened.

Ben Hogan, recent winner of the National Open and the PGA tourneys, was not on hand to defend the title he won last year at Chicago's Westward Ho club. Neither was Jimmy Demaret, runnerup to Hogan in the National Open.

The professionals were slated to play 18 holes a day through Sunday. Top man will pick up $2,000.

Special Game Friday Night

Dayton Team Coming To Play Universals

Ballyhoo for Friday night's first extra-special attraction of the softball season today was increasing in tempo.

The Universals, last year's Recreation League champions, are to meet the Standard Register crew, the top outfit in Dayton's tough Industrial League, at Wilson Field in the second game of the evening's double feature.

The Lawson Legion post team is to tangle with the Mortons in the first game starting at 7:30 P. M.

Other special games with ranking out-of-town teams are to be staged from time to time this summer, Fred Pierson, the recreation director said.

No admission is to be charged, but a contribution is to be taken at the gate. The proceeds, after expenses have been deducted, are to go into the recreation program fund. The money is needed, Pierson said, to help make up the budget. The program gets about $1,800 a year from a special levy, and about $900 will have to come from other sources, Pierson explained.

Drake's Producers are to come from New Holland to play Pennington's Bakers Thursday (tonight) starting at 8:15 P. M.

German Girls Make Good Thing Of Occupation

Boys Seem Lonesome So Gerties Become Unofficial Hostesses

By IRENE SIMON
GARMISCH, Germany, (AP)—Garmisch Gertie is the best-dressed, best-fed and best Fraulein in all of Germany.

There are several hundred just like her, for Gertie is the prototype of numerous German girls in this army-run resort center. Gertie knows a good thing when she sees it, in this case the American soldier on a week's furlough in this former winter Olympic city. The army never intended to include Gertie in with the other attractions in Garmisch. She simply moved in and made herself at home.

The cigarettes, of course, come from the vacationing GI she calls her "friends."

Gertie's day usually begins when the train rolls in from Munich. She considers herself a "sort of unofficial greeter."

"Most of the boys, they seem so lonesome," says Gertie, who speaks fairly good English. "I go up to them say, 'hello, George, welcome to Garmisch.' It's surprising how many Americans are named George."

After that Gertie is assured of regular meals for as long as "George" remains at the leave center. You can usually find her dining heartily at the Holiday Inn: a snack bar on the main street.

Gertie's eating tastes are what she calls "simple." For breakfast she takes fruit juice, two eggs with bacon, toast, and coffee. She goes easy at lunch time and selects the daily special, which could be anything from spaghetti with meat balls to veal cutlet with mashed potatoes. Later, George may buy her a couple of hamburgers and a coke, and in the evening they fill up with soup, a meat dish, fancy cake, and a malted milk shake.

Gertie, of course, is not allowed above the first floor of any of the many army-run hotels in Garmisch. But there are plenty of places to take Gertie when George wants to have a night on the town. The fanciest is the Casa Carioca, a night club which features an ice show and which could get by very nicely in the states.

There is also a less fancy club called the Bavarian Retreat, and the various hotel ball rooms.

For fifty cents George and Gertie can go rowing, sailing, or fishing. They can take one of the many scenic walks around the lake. The view is wonderful, for the inland body of water nestles at the foot of the Zugspitz, Germany's highest peak.

The Elbsee also has its own snack bar. Right now Gertie goes big for the Bavarian special, an ice cream treat made of vanilla cream, peaches and marshmallow fudge.

Sometimes Gertie can get George to buy her fineries from the army clothing store. Through the kindness of many Georges the young lady manages to deck herself out just like the American wives who come to Garmisch with their husbands.

"The only thing I'm missing now is a pair of saddle shoes," sighs Gertie. "Maybe, though, I'll be able to get a pair this summer."

Gertie says she came to Garmisch a half year ago and has never regretted it.

"It's wonderful all year around," she declares. "In the summer the soldiers come to enjoy the warm-weather sports, and in the winter they come for skiing and bobsledding. They're always glad to find me here."

Not everyone in town is pleased to find Gertie in Garmisch. The army would be pleased if she went far, far away. Whatever the army thinks about it, Gertie intends to stay in Garmisch for some time to come.

"It's a free country, isn't it?" says Gertie, quoting her friend George.

Love is Where You Find It

BY KAY HAMILTON

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
MRS. POTTS said, with an air of scarcely concealed curiosity, "What do you think of that Eph Merwell, Mr. Paulson? I've seen you talking to him a couple of times."

"I get my gas there," Andrew informed her. "I like him. He has a real sense of humor. And so has his cat."

Mrs. Potts was distinctly startled. "I never heard of such a thing—a cat with a sense of humor! And as for that Eph—he's nothing but a show-off. Always twisting the things he says so's he can catch people off-guard and surprise 'em. He's a lazy too."

Andrew raised his brows. "Lazy? He doesn't strike me that way."

"Well, he is. He could be doing a man's work instead of setting around most of the day in that shack of his. How he makes out, I don't know—there's not enough money in it to keep him going, really—but he always seems to have plenty. Still keeps on that big house of his in town, and gives his good-for-nothin' brother and family free rent and board, far as I can see. 'Course he's a perfect sink-hole of gossip—between what he picks up at the filling station, and what his sister-in-law passes on to him, he knows just about everything that's happening around here, and he's managed to make a few deals that way—like this Wheeler place you're interested in. If you buy it, he'll have his cut from Life Stevens, see if he doesn't!"

"He's not married?" Andrew asked, keeping a straight face with an effort.

"Married! That cratter! No woman would have him. I guess, I guess he's tried, often enough, though."

"Why, Ma," Gloria protested, resting her elbows on the book she was supposed to be studying, "you know you said yourself he was considered quite a catch, and if you hadn't married Pa—"

Her mother turned on her fiercely. "You get back to your lessons, young lady. I don't want to hear another word out of you."

Andrew suddenly remembered Gloria had told him, that first day when he had applied for a room, that Eph was "sweet on her mother." He wondered what Mrs. Potts really had against Merwell. But before he could explore this train of thought, his landlady said, "Come to think of it, Gloria, I left my old felt hat in the barn this afternoon when I was tidying up in there. You go get it."

"Oh, Ma," Gloria wailed, "what on earth do you want that old hat now for? I can get it tomorrow."

"Yes, and I can catch a cold in my head, putting on a hat that's been hanging in a cold barn all night. Now, hurry up!"

"But—but it's dark out there."

"I'll get it," Andrew offered, rising to his feet.

"You stay set, Mr. Paulson," Mrs. Potts said in an authoritative voice. "I asked Gloria to get it. Time she got over these fool childish notions about the dark, anyway."

Gloria shrugged into her wind-breaker most unwillingly, and finally left the warm, lighted kitchen. At once her mother turned to Andrew. "Mr. Paulson," she said, an unusual sense of urgency in her voice, "I did that just to get her out of the room. I wanted to ask you—would you consider boarding here? You see, she continued, before he could speak, "if you should buy that Wheeler farm, you'd be leaving in a couple of months or so, and I wouldn't mind the extra work if it was only that long. It would save you money, too," she added, as if he needed an inducement.

Andrew opened his mouth to accept heartily, and remembered, just in time, the tradition of bargaining which Mrs. Potts held so dear. "How much would it come to?" he asked instead.

"Well, you're getting your breakfasts now, and it would be dinners and suppers. I figure I could feed you right well for—say—seven dollars extra a week."

"That would make it sixteen dollars," Andrew said in a doubtful voice, although he was more than anxious to jump at the offer.

Mrs. Potts bit her lip, while her pale eyes swiveled rapidly from him to the door. Gloria might be back at any moment. "Make it fifteen," she said, breathlessly.

"That suits me fine," Andrew said, and she sat back with a sigh of relief.

"I might as well tell you," she said in a lower tone, and speaking rapidly, "that I'm doing this because of Gloria. Her manners could stand a little prettying up, and it's been my observation," she added drily, "that girls will mind their manners better with a man around."

Gloria came back into the kitchen, carrying the battered grey felt hat which her mother wore for chores about the place, as if it were some species of particularly repulsive worm. "It was on the floor," she said in a quavering voice, "and something r-ran out of one of the stalls and I nearly stepped on it!"

"Never mind that now," her mother said briskly. "Hang it up on the hook, and come and finish your lessons. And then you can set the table—properly, young lady—because Mr. Paulson is going to be eating here from now on."

"Eating here?" Gloria echoed, her eyes enormous with happy emotion. "You mean dinner and supper?"

"What else is there?" her mother inquired acidly. "He already takes breakfast here."

"Oh, Mr. Paulson," Gloria breathed, "how perfectly swell!" She gulped slightly. "I mean—I mean—how definitely swell!"

His landlady had frankly admitted that he was to become a boarder simply because of his influence on Gloria, but there was no doubt in Andrew's mind that her daughter was truly happy to have him. It gave him, an extraordinarily warm feeling.

Joan was sitting in a narrow beam of sunlight which came in through the east window of Alec Priest's office. Her head was bent over a ledger, and her mouth pouted slightly with concentration. Andrew stood still in the doorway, and wondered a little at the queer churning sensation within him. Her hair had fallen forward a little, and the white Peter Pan collar of her blouse, lying smooth and pristine against her blue sweater, gave her a little-girl look.

Aware suddenly that someone was watching her, she looked up, and he saw the soft rose-color flood her face as she recognized him. Her mouth had two little dimples at the corner when she smiled, and her eyes crinkled with friendliness. "Come in," she said. "Here on business?"

"Yes, I'm on a still hunt for some lumber," he admitted. "Lumber?" She wrinkled her forehead in pretended ignorance. "What is that?"

"Don't tell me everybody is right, and you haven't any," he said in mock despair. But there was enough real feeling in his voice to make her give him a second glance.

"Do you really need it badly?" she asked.

He nodded. "I've found the place I want to buy, I think. But it needs some remodeling."

"Couldn't it wait?"

"I'm afraid not. Of course, everything's tentative so far. I haven't even had time to get the soil report from the University yet."

"Didn't you take it to the County Agent?" she inquired.

"What's a County Agent?" She shook her head at him. "The County Agricultural Agent, to give him his full title, is the man who is the expert on soils and crops, farm management, forestry, dairying, orcharding—and heaven knows what else. He's stationed at Woodsville with his staff, and he's the man to see if you're thinking of buying a farm."

Andrew was surprised. "Thanks for the tip. I didn't know anything about him. I'll look him up today, that is, if I make any headway on the lumber problem."

"Did you say 'lumber'?" Alec Priest demanded, standing in the doorway of his office.

Andrew wheeled around with a grin. "Now, don't you start it, too," he said.

"Start what? I'd give a good deal to start this mill running. Right now we haven't enough in the place to make a cigar box."

Andrew sighed. "Mrs. Potts said a dog-house. I see the situation is getting worse."

"What did you want it for, and how much?" Alec said, adding at once, "I'm just asking out of curiosity, that's all. Not that I can do anything about it, but everybody else in this town has told me his troubles, so you might as well get in with the crowd."

Andrew said seriously, "I'm thinking of buying a farm, but the house needs some fixing up."

"What farm?" Alec asked. "The Wheeler place—out East Branfield way?"

He saw Joan's startled look, saw her start to open her mouth, then shut it again with decision.

Federal School Aid Pressed for Action

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Senate backers of a bill providing another $5,000,000 in federal aid to schools having excess enrollment as result of war and defense activities sought today to squeeze the bill onto the crowded calendar.

The assistance would represent continuance of a program begun during the war under the Lanham Act. The extension measure passed the House yesterday.

House sponsors of the bill pointed out that the bureau of community facilities shows estimated needs for 1948-49 year to be $6,417,183.

The bureau's estimates indicate that 157 schools including seven in Ohio, require federal help to carry their load in the coming school year.

Registrations For Babies To Be Systemized

Government Set-up Designed to Relieve Some of Confusion

Women have the "new" look, men have the "bold" look and starting January 1, 1949, babies will have a right to a "dazed" look.

A new system of giving an 11-digit serial number to each baby at birth was approved at the conference of state registrars of vital statistics in Washington, D. C.

The Fayette County Health Department has not received an official notification for standardizing birth registrations but Dr. Gordon E. Savage said he had heard about it.

When the plan goes into effect all over the country, every baby will be tagged with a birth registration serial number that he will carry with him through life. When he dies, the number will go out of existence with him.

Every state has been assigned a number according to its alphabetical ranking. This number will follow the national digit of one. Ohio's number is 34.

The first baby born in Ohio next year will be given 134-49-000001. The first digit, one, means he is an American citizen; the 34 that he was born in Ohio and the 49, set off by dashes, refers to the year of his birth.

Some complaints have been voiced because of the idea of registration. W. H. Veigel, Ohio's vital statistics division chief, was reported to have said, "The average person is identified with approximately 100 different numbers during his lifetime."

"When you're born, you're given a number in the hospital," he went on. "That's just the beginning. There's social security numbers, draft registration, military serial numbers, rationing, to mention only a few. And then if you're in trouble with the law, you get another number in the penitentiary."

If everything goes as scheduled, every new-born Fayette County will be issued, automatically and free of charge, a birth registration card. It will be wallet-sized and encased in transparent plastic for preservation.

The card will contain abbreviated information about its bearer—name, date and place of birth, color, sex and dates the birth was registered and the card was issued.

Other statistics of a more personal nature than appear on a full fledged birth certificate will be left off to save embarrassment when the card is shown as identification or application for work.

Veigel said persons born in Ohio between 1908 and 1949, who desire such birth registration cards, also will be able to get them next year. All persons born in Ohio since 1908 have a birth registration number at Columbus.

Canada already is using the system and the national number there is 2. Mexico also is considering its adoption. Its national number would be 3.

Insects Damaging Some Growing Corn

A number of farmers have reported insects are causing extensive damage to their growing corn, by working on the roots and stalk, and say the cool weather has been responsible.

In some instances the insects have killed the corn, or caused it to cease growing like it should.

Many other farmers state that their corn failed to come up properly, and that they were forced to either plant it over or do extensive replanting by hand.

Herman Bandy Dies In South Charleston

Herman Bandy, 48, brother-in-law of Mrs. Russell Giebelhouse, of Washington C. H., died at his home in South Charleston, Wednesday, and funeral services will be held Friday at 2 P. M. at the Methodist Church in South Charleston, followed by interment at South Charleston.

Surviving are his widow, a son, Gene, of South Charleston, and daughter, Mrs. Leonard Barnes, of Springfield.

Craig Employees Have 'burger Fry

Fourteen male employees of the Craig Brothers Company department store fried hamburgers, pitched horseshoes and had an all-around good time Wednesday evening.

The event, a regular one for men of the store, was held at Cedarhurst, Walter Craig's cottage south of Washington C. H.

County Courts

DIVORCE GRANTED

Bessie Jordan has been granted a divorce from Walter Orvil Jordan on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, and has been restored to her maiden name of Bessie Dearth.

AWARDED DIVORCE

Judge H. M. Rankin has awarded Grace A. Trenner a divorce from Richard Trenner, on claims of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, and the defendant was barred from all interests in the plaintiff's property.

PARTITION ACTION

A lengthy petition to partition 312 acres of land in Perry Township, has been filed in the Fayette County Common Pleas Court, by Alice E. Bonner and Ethel Bonner, who make Robert Bonner and several others, defendant in the action.

Robert Bonner is made defendant if living, and "if not living, his unknown executors or administrators, his unknown heirs, including his widow, Audrey Bonner."

The plaintiffs, represented by Attorneys Wilson and Wilson, of Hillsboro, each claim 1-3 interest in 312 acres in Perry Township, each having acquired 1-6 interest by purchase from Edward O. Bonner, under date of Oct. 12, 1904. Also each acquired 1-6 interest under the will of their brother, William A. Bonner, who died July 5, 1947.

They acquired a life estate in the remaining 1-3 under the will of their sister, Martha J. Bonner, who died Nov. 10, 1947, and left her 1-3, subject to the life estate, to the children of her brother, Hugh Bonner, share and share alike. Hugh Bonner died Oct. 13, 1924 at Clay Center, Nebraska, leaving six children.

On August 1, 1926, it is noted in the petition, Robert Bonner failed to return from a trip to Oklahoma, and has not been heard from.

Forest E. Haines, tenant on the farm, is made defendant as the tenant, and the plaintiffs ask that their portion of the estate be set off to them, by sale of the property or otherwise.

Auto Dealers Seat Officers

2 Fayette Countians Are Named to Posts

New officers of the Fayette-Clinton County Automobile Dealers Association were installed at the organization's regular meeting Wednesday evening at Brown's Drive-In.

Heading the organization for the coming year is a Clinton County dealer, Eugene Dabe. L. C. Scott of Universal Motors, Washington C. H., was installed as vice president, Joseph E. White of J. Elmer White & Son, Washington C. H., took over as secretary for a second term and Bob Ervin of Clinton County became the treasurer.

Principal speaker of the evening was Mack Sauer, editor and publisher of the weekly Leesburg Citizen. Sauer is a well-known humorist and speaker and has traveled all over the country giving talks.

Music was provided for the evening by Walter Shoop of Sabina, popular accordionist.

Little business was transacted, much of the evening being spent in "shop talk" among the members. About 30 were present.

Retiring as president at the meeting was Don Brandenburg of Washington C. H.

The next meeting will be held in August at the Snowhill Country Club, near Wilmington.

Howard Ross Dies At Hamilton Home

Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Woodmansee were called to Hamilton Wednesday by the death of Howard Ross who died at his home there. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Ross has many friends in this county, made during his frequent visits here in the past.

Survivors include his wife and one sister, Mrs. Harry Newton, of Tampa, Florida.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Miller Funeral Home in North College Hill cemetery.

Army Officer Here Making Investigation

Lieut. Stephen P. Ham, of the Clinton County Air Base, was here Thursday, making an investigation into the finding of a two-pound lead plumb bob and 220 feet of coiled wire on the Louis C. Parrett farm, Chillicothe Road, which has broken from an airplane, and the plumb bob had penetrated 16 inches into the ground.

Lieut. Ham expressed the belief that the antenna outfit had been in use by a commercial plane, or possibly was a connecting wire between a glider and its tow.

It's Only A Tour

100 Fayette Countians To Go To Ohio Penitentiary Friday

Over 100 Fayette Countians are going to the state penitentiary Friday.

They are going of their own free will—and their "sentence" is only for one hour.

The Fayette Countians who will go to prison are members of 4-H Clubs. They are going on their annual tour, a big event of the farm youth organization.

Accompanied by Albert G. Cobb, associate Fayette County agricultural agent and Margaret Watson, home demonstration agent, members of the clubs will leave the agent's office on Delaware Street promptly at 7:30 A. M.

They are due to arrive at the penitentiary at 9 A. M., where arrangements have been made through the office of Warden Ralph Alvis for a complete tour of the institution.

After leaving the prison, the club members will go across the street to the Fairmont Dairy where they will watch milk and other dairy products being processed for delivery to consumers of the Columbus area.

They also will see a mechanism which breaks an average of 1,000-000 eggs per week.

"It is used for preparing ingredients that go into ice cream," Cobb explained.

Through the courtesy of R. L. Baker, manager of the dairy, ice cream bars will be given to each of the visitors.

After this, the boys and girls will go to the Ohio State University stadium for a picnic lunch. At 1 P. M., they will begin a tour of the State Archaeological and His-

Doctors Have Hobbies, too, But No Time To Enjoy Them

Doctors in Washington C. H. like hobbies just like anyone else. But few people know it.

How many times have you caught your family doctor under a deluge of stamps, sorting them out for his collection, or practically in tears because he couldn't locate a piece of early Chinese porcelain that would complete his set?

The reason is a unanimous "we're too busy" from all the physicians.

So far, none of them have found an answer as to how to take more leisure time, but it can be safely said the problem is receiving deep consideration.

Vacations afford the only spare time and fishing heads the list as to how this time is spent. Photography runs a close second, and if sleeping is considered a hobby, it tops them all.

Without mentioning each time that there aren't enough hours in the day for the doctors to get to their hobbies, here's what they'd be doing if they found the time:

Dr. Joseph M. Herbert likes golfing and fishing but is a family man at heart and hates to tear himself away from the kids.

Dr. J. H. Persinger is a camera fiend and just finished a year's trick as president of the Camera Club. His special love is salon work in black and white and he is a regular contributor to the county and state fairs. He recently received honorable mention at a Rotary International exhibit and at present has some of his work entered in the American Medical Association exhibit.

Dr. James E. Rose combines both fishing and movie photography with the accent on travel movies.

Dr. Marvin Roszmann is very fond of fishing, but both he and Dr. N. M. Reiff are strong advocates of sleeping during spare time.

Dr. A. D. Woodmansee has recently returned from his camp in the northern peninsula of Michigan where he was able to devote all his time to trout fishing, and he reported the largest single morning's catch was eight.

Dr. E. H. McDonald is a chef at heart and specializes in steaks and roasts, or "male diets." He also confessed he enjoyed eating as much as cooking.

Dr. G. D. Elliott enjoys working outside and takes particular pride in his vegetable garden.

Dr. O. L. Wiseman has been too ill recently to enjoy his hobby which is riding his five-gaited or six-gaited horses.
